VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. J. H. Kellgren, professor of rheumatology at the University of Manchester, said here Wednesday a major breakthrough is imminent in rheumatism and arthritis research.

He said a permanent cure for the afflictions can be expected within the next 20 or 30 years.

Over Atlantic

Giant Balloon Lofted

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—Space scientists here shot a 100-foot balloon to an altitude of 240 miles over the Atlantic Ocean about dusk yesterday, touching off "flying saucer" reports all along the Atlantic seaboard.

The rocket launcher, its vapor trail or the 10-storey high aluminum-coated balloon, which weighed only 130 pounds, were seen as far north as Boston and Ottawa and as far south as Florida.

People who saw the balloon described it variously as a "blimp with lights," a flame-spouting jet-assisted helicopter and two planes with lights flying extremely close together.

The balloon was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in one of a series of experiments the government hopes will lead to placing one of the balloons in orbit around the earth.

Viewers in the New York City area began reporting the flashing object about 20 minutes after it was launched along the Virginia coast.

The huge balloon was made of plastic with an aluminum coat only one-half of one-thousandth of an inch thick. In the forthcoming experiments in space communications, the balloon will be used as a reflector. By bouncing signals off the balloon it should be possible to transmit signals thousands of miles.

At present, high frequency radio and TV signals cannot be received readily by stations more than 50 to 100 miles distant because they are blocked out by elevations and other physical obstacles such as tall buildings.

COMPETENCE, NOT SENIORITY MAY BE TEACHING YARDSTICK

B.C. May Pioneer Revolutionary Plan

British Columbia teachers are considering a revolutionary proposal which would sound the death knell on seniority as a major ingredient to advancement within their profession.

The precedent-shattering proposal has gone out to teachers from a special committee of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation chaired by Bernard C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

THREE TYPES

If adopted by federation members the membership committee's plan would:

1. Create three teaching classifications: instructor, teacher, professional teacher (with different salary scales for different school districts).
2. Place classification of all teachers in the hands of a BCTF board of review.
3. Classify members on the basis of competence, experience and educational accomplishment.
4. Limit salary levels available to the classifications of instructor and teacher.

PRECEDENT SET

Mr. Gillie said yesterday he believed it was the first time such a plan had been created within a teachers' organization "anywhere in the world, and I've gone into this kind of thing pretty thoroughly."

One of the objects of the plan, he said, is to end "public thinking that anybody who stands up before a blackboard and waves a piece of chalk is a teacher, regardless of whether he has been teaching six months or six years."

VOTE NEEDED

He said implementation of the plan will require changes in the constitution of the teachers' federation and is not likely to come before 1961. It will take a two-thirds vote of teachers to amend the constitution.

He said that if the plan is adopted it should end the complaint of B.C. school trustees that they cannot be qualified judges of teachers' competence.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

Under the terms of the proposal all persons entering the teaching profession will automatically become instructors and as such shall be limited to the first two steps on any school district's scale of annual salary increments.

After two years they may apply to the board of review for re-classification as teachers, and if they have not applied at the end of five years their classification will come up for automatic review by the board.

Teacher applicants will have to show that they have served two years as instructors and present evidence of competence based on reports of school superintendents of schools, directors of instruction and principals, plus any other information the board may require.

FIVE-YEAR WAIT

Teachers will be limited to the first seven steps on the salary scale and may not apply for reclassification as professional teachers until they have served five years as teachers.

Professional teachers would have to have a degree or its equivalent, present evidence of "continued competence" based upon the same sources as for the classification of teacher, present "evidence of professional growth acceptable to the board of review," plus any other information requested.

NO SALARY CUT

Upon implementation of the plan no present teachers would suffer a salary cut, and teachers who entered the profession prior to Sept. 1, 1956, could apply for professional teacher classification on the strength of "extensive experience as a successful teacher" in lieu of a degree.

The board of review, which would consist of "teachers of extensive training and experience and outstanding professional competence," would have the power to downgrade as well as upgrade members of the profession.

'Policing' Answer To Public

A B.C. Teachers' Federation proposal that it police competence within its own ranks has been described by the committee which drafted it as "an answer to all those who decry automatic advancement."

The committee, chaired by Victoria's Bernard C. Gillie, said the plan "is our attempt to guarantee the competence of teachers, or at least to make it clear that we are not willing to have all classroom teachers lumped together, be they the qualified or the unqualified, the satisfactory or the very unsatisfactory."

"Many believe that we do a great disservice to the public, to education, and to ourselves by covering up."

City Hotel To Cost $1,000,000

Plans for construction of a 48-unit motel and a 100-unit, drive-in hotel in Victoria at a total cost of $1,000,000 have been announced by an American hotel chain.

City contractor Derryck Jackson of Cobble Hill, representing Doric Hotels, announced the plans yesterday. The Doric chain takes in 35 hotels with a total of 4,000 rooms, and includes the Saxony Hotel in Miami and the Ocotillo Lodge in Palm Springs.

The 48-unit motel is already under construction at 3025 Douglas Street, next to a restaurant being built by Paul Arsens of Victoria.

Work on the hotel, which will be a five-storey building, begins in December at an undisclosed downtown location, and should be completed in May, 1960. The hotel will include a 100-seat restaurant and an Hawaiian lounge overlooking a heated swimming pool.

Winners Got Help On Quiz

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charles Van Doren had both questions and answers before appearing on the television quiz show, "Twenty-One," an authoritative source said Wednesday. The source of this charge told Fred Danzig of United Press International, that to his knowledge big prize winners—with few exceptions—received pre-broadcast aid.

The source said that Van Doren received help over the rough spots.

'I'll Buy Groceries'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—"What are you going to do with all that money?" neighbors asked 77-year-old pensioner George Brown.

"Buy groceries," replied George. (See also story Page 7.)

Then the little bachelor hustled from his $124-a-month room here to the telegraph office and tried to cash the telegram which told him he had won $140,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes based on Wednesday's Cambridgehire handicap.

When they told him he couldn't cash a telegram, George toddled off to his old home in nearby Vancouver to pick up his pension cheque.

His pension is worth $55 a month. He gets another $20 in social assistance.

When reporters tried to question him, George said: "Go to hell. I don't want to be bothered by anybody."

George, who is almost totally deaf, didn't hear the radio broadcast of the race. He was one of three British Columbia pensioners who won one of the top three prizes.

Two Vancouver pensioners, retired building contractor George Scobie, and part-time tailor William Cliff, won second prizes of $54,000.

Charles Blackley of Lillooet, 54-year-old plumbing and heating contractor who draws a pension for service in the Second World War, won $28,000.

The only non-pensioner in B.C. to get a top prize was David De Camillis, 45, of West Vancouver, who also won $28,000.

Jorgen Barstad, a 29-year-old Alberta bachelor farmer with a longing for "small piece of land" of his own now can afford to buy it.

He won $140,000 Wednesday in the sweep.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

Mexico Hurricane Kills at Least 80

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Eighty persons are known dead and 100 missing in the hurricane-hit Pacific port of Manzanillo, reports from the area said Wednesday night. Estimates put the number of injured at 500.

It was feared many of those listed as missing would be found buried in the wreckage of houses and other buildings.

The hurricane raked the port Tuesday. Rivers fed by torrential two-day rains flooded large areas of the states of Colima and Jalisco.

The office of Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos said the civil hospital at Manzanillo reported 74 bodies had been recovered.

Cuba Arrests 400 'Plotters'

HAVANA (Reuters)—Four hundred persons Wednesday were reported to have been arrested in Camaguey City, eastern Cuba.

They are accused of taking part in a conspiracy allegedly led by Maj. Hubert Matos, former military chief of Camaguey province.

The queue for co-sponsorship grew during the day as the great powers urged support of the rare resolution and by Wednesday night spokesmen announced the list was complete.

Canada was one of the original seven co-sponsors of the resolution, negotiated chiefly by the United States and the Soviet Union in consultation with allies.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has taken many insults from ignorant critics, who have accused the CBC of being wasteful, highbrow and out of touch with reality.

Much talk has been made in the newspapers about the CBC's "deficit"—as though our publicly-owned system had been created to make a profit, and must be regarded as a failure when it goes in the red.

A fair appraisal of the CBC—such as that provided by Walter O'Hearn in the current Saturday Review—comes as a pleasant surprise.

"Broadcasting has done a lot to preserve the present Canadian accent and tone," Mr. O'Hearn says. "This has been part of a deliberate policy, a national design. By this test each radio or television program produced for the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation becomes a political act, however aesthetic in intention."

"Whether it is a talk on ceramics or an ambitious 'live' drama 90 minutes in length, it is part of the plan to keep Canada Canadian."

The CBC serves a thinly-scattered population of 17,000,000. It is doomed to lose money.

The CBC wages a never-ending fight to be independent from political pressure. "It has special problems... dealing in two languages... the regionalism of Canada, which is most intense in less privileged sections. (It must) keep production staffs in centres that are not financially rewarding."

"Under these conditions sheer survival for 23 years has been a feat in itself. The development of a distinctive Canadian style and tone and a solid contribution to Canadian culture are extra dividends, and better than Canada had any right to expect."

Mr. O'Hearn has something to say of our cool newscasters, our varied crew of commentators, drawn from every segment of opinion, right to left; our distinguished radio drama of pre-television days; free-swinging panel discussions and mentally challenging Wednesday Night programs.

He draws attention to the job that the CBC does in serving sparsely-settled areas which might otherwise have no radio or television at all.

He admits that the CBC is in trouble. There have been quarrels, errors, signs that the organization is coming unstuck in places. Yet no member of parliament would like to see the CBC smashed.

The CBC is useful as a medium of communication for thinly-populated regions, and as a force binding the nation together. No politician in his senses would wish to abandon it.

We need more candid talk of the kind that Mr. O'Hearn has given us. It helps clear the air of prejudice, and gives some of us courage to treat the anti-CBC propaganda campaign with the ridicule it deserves.

Musical Arts Society

Season's First Concert Sets High Standard

By BERT BINNY

It was the opening of the season for the Victoria Musical Art Society last night.

For their first concert at Holyrood House the featured artists were soprano Ruth Champion and baritone John Dunbar. Richard Proudman was at the piano and Miss Champion, in her "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," was assisted by flautist Maurice Crawford.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross and Mrs. Ross and party attended.

If this program is any indication of the calibre and success of those yet to come, then the Musical Art Society is in for a banner season. The Sir William Wallace Room at Holyrood House was almost entirely filled and the music was of the very best.

John Dunbar sang compositions by Handel, Schumann, Richard Strauss and Roger Quilter. Particularly attractive were his "Die beiden Grenadiere" (Schumann) and Richard Strauss' "Morgen."

Ruth Champion and John Dunbar joined forces also for duets by Victor Herbert and Sigmund Romberg.

The next Musical Art Society program takes place Nov. 25 at Oak Bay Junior High School. The featured artist will be pianist, Mary Munn. Also in attendance will be the Greater Victoria Schools' Junior Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Dorothy Evans.

Electronic Mail Clerk Gets Trial

MONTREAL (UPI) — A new electronic brain to sort letters will be given its first test in Montreal next spring, Postmaster-General William Hamilton announced yesterday.

Hamilton told the Electrical Club of Montreal that the complicated electronic device may prove to be one of the major "breakthroughs" in postal operations of this century.

The "printer-memory-sorter" would be able to sort 30,000 letters an hour, compared with the present 1,800 an hour now sorted by hand, he said.

The electronic brain prints a "destination" code on the letter, reads the dotted code and selects the route.

Rush Order Refused

Six-Day Delay Stands in U.S. Steel Injunction

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court refused Wednesday to require the steelworkers union to hurry its appeal from an order that would end the steel strike, now in its 107th day.

This probably means the strike will drag on at least into next week.

In a brief order giving no reasons the high court rejected a government request that the back-to-work Taft-Hartley injunction become effective promptly if the union did not file its appeal by noon today.

By so doing, the high court let stand a six-day delay granted the union by an appeals court in Philadelphia Tuesday that upheld the back-to-work order issued earlier by a federal district judge in Pittsburgh. That delay—intended to give the union time to carry its case to the Supreme Court—is due to expire next Monday.

The ruling came a little more than seven hours after the justice department had formally requested the court to lose no time and uphold the back-to-work order "so that the emergency created by the steel strike may not continue longer than absolutely necessary."

Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's counsel, filed a document questioning the high court's right to take the case at this stage. The union said a delay of a few more weeks, "would not irreparably harm the national interest."

After all the pleadings are in, the supreme court could dispose of the case simply by denying a review. Or it could order oral argument on the merits of the case before making a decision.

U.K. Unions Will Probe Rash of Wildcat Strikes

LONDON (Reuters)—Worried British union leaders have decided to investigate a growing rash of unofficial strikes that are hitting shipping, the automotive industry and railways. The general council of the 8,250,000-member Trades Union Congress ordered an inquiry to begin Nov. 16.

Meanwhile, fresh wildcat walkouts were reported at a carburetor plant and a Liverpool dock.

The 22,000-ton Cunard liner Sylvania, scheduled to sail for Montreal Wednesday afternoon, was stalled at Liverpool—with about 200 passengers aboard—by an unofficial strike of River Mersey tugboatmen.

Some 4,000 dockworkers have been made idle by the strike.

Servant Pay Hike Remote Says Investment Official

OTTAWA (CP)—Pay increases for federal civil servants are "only a very, very remote possibility," within the next three months, Hugh Lawson, manager of an Ottawa investment firm, said Wednesday. But they could come within a year, following restored economic stability. He was commenting on an Oct. 22 statement here by Norman Alexander of Winnipeg, president of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada, endorsing the federal government's action in refusing pay increases.

Left in Isolation

BRITISH COLUMBIA celebrated its hundredth birthday last year and eyes were cast ahead to a golden future. They gazed mainly in one direction, however—northwards on the mainland. Little if any thought was given to another northern area, that of Vancouver Island. Yet it is full of potential assets, if only it were opened up and settlement encouraged.

As it is and has been for long enough, the top half of the island is practically a closed preserve, shut off from the main flow of provincial development. It lacks public access; it lacks public roads; and it lacks opportunities for people to settle. Except for the large timber holders whose operations cover the domain in privileged licence, and a few struggling isolated communities, the northern portion of the island is a backwater. Yet it is almost as large as the southern portion and awaits only proper handling for it to enjoy equal prosperity.

Mr. Dan Campbell, the energetic MLA for Comox, has drawn attention to the neglect and to the needs of the north end of the Island. At present, he says, it is the preserve of timber "lords," either in private or public forest. Land is pre-empted so that even loggers cannot secure enough on which to build a home. No facilities exist to permit private enterprise to open up the area with diversified business, to create tourist opportunities, to develop new living areas. There is a network of logging roads but these are closed to the public and thus a block to any general development.

Obviously it is time for government planners to turn their eyes more objectively to the upper half of Vancouver Island, which is what Mr. Campbell urges. Logging will always be important, but this area will remain backward if means to let people in are not provided and land made available on which to settle. It takes people to build up any area, and at present the northern section of the Island is a reproach to the dynamism which B.C. is experiencing as it explores avenues to enrich the economy by settlement and business opportunity. An area of rich potential use is being badly overlooked.

Out with 'Junk' Mail

REPORTS that the post office department is looking for a way to reduce the nuisance caused by what is commonly described as junk mail will give joy to many people. It is not only the postal service which is annoyed by the way mail advertising has developed. To tens of thousands of householders and business offices throughout the land this cluttering of mailboxes with printed piffle is a perpetual cause of anger and wasted effort.

The post office has less cause than the public to regard this misuse of the royal mails as a nuisance to be got rid of if a way can be found. True, receiving and distributing junk mail adds heavily to the work of the postal staff and the cost of operating the most important of all federal services. But the department gets paid for it; and as the Canadian post office operates with strict regard for profit and loss, it may be taken for granted that the government does quite nicely.

Not so the householders and business people. Separating the wheat from the chaff has to be done in their own time; and in the case of business firms that time and the accompanying cost can be considerable. For householders junk mail is thrown away, which means that it is thrown onto streets, sidewalks and boulevards or into gutters, to lie there as soggy litter until the street cleaners remove it at public expense.

The department's big mistake was in undertaking in the first place to handle unstamped items dumped into the post office by the ton for distribution in the so-called household mailing service. This stuff is not mail at all and should not be accepted as such. The fact that the post office does so now should not mean that it must go on doing so forever and in whatever quantities the advertisers decide.

Thrifty in Habit

IN all of the postwar economic fluctuations, Canadians do not seem to have lost their thrifty habits. Endless discussion of "tight money," inflation and every other facet of the subject has not stopped the public in this country from increasing life insurance, personal savings, bond and equity holdings at a much steadier rate than is often acknowledged in the contentions of the day. The fourteenth series of Dominion savings bonds is affording additional proof of the innate thrift of the average Canadian household. Nearly $175,000,000 was invested in the new savings bonds during the first 10 days of their sale over counters across the nation.

It is an impressive fact in itself that in British Columbia, hit by work stoppages and overseas marketing troubles, 21,188 payroll employees have signed up for a total of more than $6,271,000 in the opening stage of the federal offering. Four large Vancouver-Island firms have already topped their previous employee records in savings bonds by as much as one-fifth, and this in competition with a lucrative parity bond offering of British Columbia on behalf of the PGE. Among the foregoing results, perhaps none of the individual investments may be large, but the fact that thousands of British Columbians are buying the new savings bonds for investment and reserves augurs well for their future.

Not much can happen to a public which keeps up its personal insurance, adds to its savings on a regular basis, and so builds up permanent reserves. The ups and downs of the money market have only transitory meaning for those who are embarked on a regular savings program. On a small scale and over a short period this may amount to no more than a little cash in hand against the unforeseen. Over a longer period and when indulged in as a national habit, such savings can build up impressive estates. For the small investor or the large, the savings bond habit is a good one. There is no better security in the nation.

Interpreting the News

Cuba Hard Up, Anxious

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FIDEL Castro is in trouble and, like other Latin American rulers when they have troubles, he is using the United States as a whipping boy.

The trouble is that Cuba doesn't have enough money.

There are frequent reports these days that Castro's austere economics are causing discontent among peasants and workers, most of whom nevertheless remain his ardent supporters. Businessmen are feeling the pinch of import controls, new taxes and fewer tourists.

Having tossed out dictator Fulgencio Batista 10 months ago, Castro pledged that a social and economic revolution would follow to raise the low standard of living of most of the population.

Castro's three-year guerrilla war against Batista had already upset the economy—tourists were staying away and the country's gold and dollar reserves were dwindling.

None of this has changed. There is not enough money to pay for all the reforms Castro wants or has started. Unemployment is widespread, despite big school and public works building programs.

The Institute of Agrarian Reform needs millions. This is the agency that takes over large farm holdings, splits them up and distributes them among the peasants. Because the peasants have little money, the institute has to finance them. People are reported to be grumbling over new taxes on beer and rum and food imported from the U.S.

Sugar is the backbone of Cuba's economy. It provides about a quarter of the island's income. Some men in the sugar industry are worried that less will be grown by 1961 because farmers are reluctant to continue replanting when they fear their land will be expropriated. Fidel's charges about the United States harboring aggressors and permitting their planes to take off from Florida to "bomb the defenceless city of Havana" ring thinly.

Castro supporters, although, often forestalled, often set out from Florida loaded with arms for the fight against Batista. Then as now, Washington tried to discourage gun-running in the unstable Caribbean.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax-of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

PERHAPS inspired by photographs of the moon, as forward-looking a venture as one can imagine at the moment, Maclean's in its latest issue enlists the views of assorted experts to look ahead into the next decade.

What will the sixties bring? A tantalizing question indeed and according to one's bent full of promise or its opposite. Except that a man will follow the photographs and land on the moon—Maclean's dates this event 1966—some things, I wot, won't change much.

Not in the ways of ordinary folk, anyway. I fancy that a decade hence Oak Bay won't be any closer to Victoria in civic sentiment than Russia is to Western sentiment. We should have a new court house by then but if a civic auditorium arises before 1969 this will be almost as big a physical miracle as the camera which snapped the lunar landscape.

Maclean's foresees a decline in morality although strangely also a greater parental concern about honesty, which seems a bit of a contradiction. Football crowds will be bigger, not a bad guess since there will be more people around; and except for a few "ifs" the Conservatives are going to stay in power at Ottawa for a generation. This should cause joy and gloom in the appropriate quarters.

There are many other interesting tidbits, as for instance that school homework is here to stay, the common cold may be nearly licked by 1970, power-driven pot-scrubbers and self-rinsing sinks are on the way, living-room walls will change color at the twist of a knob—house painters won't like that—and the world will balance itself precariously on the edge of a volcano as it has done all through the fifties.

Many magical material gadgets are in orbit and will land among us during the sixties, you see, but nations will remain at odds as they do today. Which means in essence that the quarrelsome proclivities of the human race are the one unchangeable feature of the universe.

Having no head for profound matters it is a little item about clothes that intrigues me most. Male clothing, that is. For women the forecast is vivid colors, new textures and bolder, simpler silhouettes—as if they weren't bold enough. I rather think Maclean's is playing it safe; since when did feminine fashions cease to be a bewildering succession of odd finks? If the millades of the sixties can beat those of the fifties they'll be going some.

If you truly follow the style for men in the decade ahead, however, he will be wearing suits with built-in underclothing. (Indeed so will milder but let's leave her be). One unzip, as it were, and I shall be ready for the bathtub, but what if the unzipping happens accidentally in the middle of Douglas Street? The mind boggles at this prospect; nothing the Russians can do on the moon could be more calamitous. True enough there will be no zippers but instead we shall be held together, with self-sealing materials—but supposing they came unstuck?

Give me, as a celluloid character said some time ago, the good old days. I could not take such a risk. I fear that up-and-coming though the sixties may be I shall remain linked to the fifties by my loose-leaf underwear.

Reports from Ottawa

PREMIER Paul Sauve is a practical man. But what may be practical in Quebec may not be practical in the rest of Canada.

He came to Ottawa a fortnight ago and proposed a means of breaking the Quebec-Ottawa impasse on federal aid to Quebec universities and colleges.

For the past six years his predecessor Maurice Duplessis, forbade Quebec institutions to accept the federal subsidies because education is a provincial responsibility.

Sauve does not say, "Okay, so Maurice was wrong. Put our Quebec colleges on your handout list." Not at all. He proposes, according to unofficial reports, a labyrinthine solution which would achieve much the same result so far as Quebec is concerned. He would increase the provincial corporation tax by 1 per cent and give the tax receipts to the colleges. The federal government would allow deduction of that 1 per cent from companies' federal tax payments.

Clever. But there's also the matter of $25,000,000 that Duplessis made his colleges refuse. It's in a kitty at Ottawa waiting to be claimed. Sauve intends to get it. The impression is that he has agreed to let the colleges accept it, despite its tainted origin, on the ground that, as he told me, it's doing no good where it is. But this bit of rationalization would do to the principle laid down by Duplessis is obvious.

If in this instance principle has to be stood aside to enable Quebec to get the $25,000,000, I am pretty sure the Quebec voters will not hold it against Sauve. Your French-Canadian is a pretty practical guy, especially where money is concerned. And $25,000,000 is a lot of money.

Moreover Sauve could point to his 1 per cent tax rebate plan as federal surrender to his precious principle of provincial fiscal responsibility for education.

In other words, the $25,000,000 isn't politically hot any more. It has cooled down over the years, while in the custody of the National Conference of Canadian Universities and Colleges. But the millions that Parliament will vote next spring for distribution among the nation's colleges is still too hot for Sauve. Next year should be election year in Quebec, and the new premier does not want the stigma of having sold out Duplessis' principles to Ottawa.

It is obviously impractical to make the 1 per cent tax rebate plan retroactive to cover the grants refused over the last six years.

But more important, it is not clearly practical for the federal government to accept Sauve's plan for the future—not without jeopardizing the program of federal aid to universities and losing needed revenues to the provinces.

It is axiomatic in federal-provincial fiscal relations that a deal offered one province must be open to any province. Ontario, for example, would get more money under the Sauve formula than it now gets at $1.50 per head of population. Provinces which would get less would keep to the $1.50 formula, but they would still be dissatisfied to see wealthy Ontario and Quebec getting more per head of population.

And finally, there is no assurance that the net benefit to the universities would be the full amount of money the Sauve scheme would cost Ottawa. Governments can be very lax in delivering the full amount of "earmarked" taxes to the causes for which they were originally earmarked.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

AT A FAMILY gathering in the home of one of my relations we had to interrupt conversation for half an hour twice during the evening, while the TV was turned on for a couple of feature programs our hostesses could not miss.

But most of us were surprised and interested when our hostess, holding a little gimmick in her hand about the size of a compact, switched off the commercials during both programs, leaving the picture on and the commercial announcer enthusiastically mouthing his message, with no sound whatever.

With this remote control device, our hostess, sitting at the far end of the room, simply beheaded the commercials.

One of our aunts was outraged. "You mean," she exclaimed, "that you accept all that costly entertainment, a program costing maybe $20,000, for nothing? Why, that's meaner than sneaking into a movie theatre without buying a ticket."

"Well," retorted the hostess, "you buy a newspaper for a few cents, but you don't have to read all the ads, do you?"

"Yes, I do!" replied the aunt. "Because if it weren't for the ads, I would have to pay $10 or $15 for that one day's paper."

I didn't say anything, because I happen to know that without the ads, there wouldn't be any newspaper to buy.

There would be only pamphlets, tracts, grinding somebody's axe.

Homework Neglected

By MARQUIS CHILDS

"O H, THAT lovely title, ex-President . . ."

These words were addressed by President Eisenhower to Marvin Arrowsmith of the Associated Press, president of the White House Correspondents Association, at end of the birthday dinner for the president. They are more revealing than Eisenhower's recent formal utterances.

Arrowsmith had earlier pointed out that he was retiring as president of the association, with only 15 seconds of his term left to run, while President Eisenhower had 15 months more to go. It happens that those 15 months can be as critical as any period since 1945. Yet after nearly seven years in the impossible office of the presidency, Eisenhower is showing more and more eagerness to put the burden down.

At almost every level of government, but particularly near the top, you hear the complaint of how hard it is to get a final decision.

With conflicting forces divided between various government departments, the effort to hammer out a negotiating position for the summit conference and later is proving difficult to the point of impossibility.

Similarly on the question of the "buy American" policy now adopted by the Development Loan Fund, and whether the policy should be extended to other agencies, there is an unresolved conflict. The pressure is strong to persuade the International Cooperation Administration to go along and make its clients "buy American." Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, who happens to be in Japan for a conference on trade and tariffs, is strongly opposed.

The timing of a summit conference and the degree of pressure that should be applied to get an earlier conference, as the president is said to want, are also at issue in the government. We cannot enforce our will on our allies. President deGaulle of France has taken a grave responsibility—in insisting for reasons of France's own internal necessities that a summit meeting be postponed until next spring.

But there is a question of the positive direction of American policy and the position which this government presents to its allies and to the world. While differences are inevitable there can be no positive direction—no really effective leadership—if fundamental disagreements persist and are aired in interminable sessions of government committees.

The argument is still going on within the government over whether with the Eisenhower initiative and the exchange of visits with Khrushchev there is in fact a recognition of the status quo in Eastern Europe. One faction is saying vehemently, no, that would be immoral and the Soviet conquest by force must not be condoned. Another faction is saying, yes, but liberation is no longer a feasible policy and we cannot shut our eyes to the facts.

This is only to suggest areas of dispute that stand in the way of policy decisions essential to the negotiations ahead. Only one man can resolve these differences and that is the president of the United States. He can resolve them not by being capricious and arbitrary but by patient, painstaking effort, by mastering all the facts, by doing his homework on the complicated issues involved, and then coming up with what he believes to be the best and fairest answer for all concerned.

The president took the initiative in visiting the European capitals and in inviting Premier Khrushchev to this country. He won restored stature as a "new Ike" who was himself calling the shots. In the light of this new glow it is not considered polite here to point out that the president is not doing his homework and that the big decisions are not being taken. Nevertheless, privately this is being said with increasing concern.

What has been achieved thus far is a delicate alteration in the atmosphere. But on both sides of the East-West dividing line are those who would like to see the old storm signals go up and who are in fact working hard to this end.

They will take advantage of all delays and certainties to reverse the mild and tentative thaw that came out of the Camp David talks. Both Red China and Nationalist China are determined that for their own ends the old cold war attitudes must be restored. Powerful forces much closer to the governments of Moscow and Washington have a vested interest in seeing the cold war resumed.

Fifteen months is a short time as these matters go. But in this short span a great deal for the future of the world, and incidentally for the Eisenhower reputation, can be determined.

Carefree Eskimos a Cruel Myth

Recover Sacrament Bishop Asks Public

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Bishop M. A. Harrington Tuesday appealed to the public to assist in the recovery of the Blessed Sacrament stolen Monday night from the tabernacle of the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. Police said thieves forced open the door of the tabernacle in the altar and took the covered vessels.

must certainly be some of the blackest pages of our history. He has exposed for the scrutiny of a nation which prides itself on its concern for the underprivileged, an account of almost incredible inhumanity in our own backyard—our northern Barrenlands.

He has disclosed how a once proud and independent native people were doomed to virtual extinction by the gross stupidity, cruel indifference or callous self-seeking of those placed officially and unofficially in authority over them. These sound like strong terms to apply in this enlightened age to police officers, public administrators and representatives of religious groups.

But anyone who reads this book will recognize those terms as moderate—even inadequate—to describe the treatment of Keewatin district Eskimos over the past quarter century or more.

Surely Farley Mowat's book will stir the conscience, rouse the indignation of Canadians in much the same way that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" aroused America a century ago.

Not that there is any literary similarity between Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous story. I make the comparison only to suggest the probable effect of "The Desperate People." Mrs. Stowe's book was emotional propaganda to win sympathy for a mistreated race.

Mowat's book is not fiction. It is a magnificent documentary—the story of a race of primitive people carefully constructed by focusing upon the facts of one fragment of their society. And through it all, Mowat's anger runs powerfully from his pen.

Most Canadians' romantic conception of the Eskimo is of a childishly simple roly-poly figure; happy in his snug igloo from which he pops warmly clad in furs and skins to romp in snowbanks; living an ideal primitive life contentedly isolated from the stresses and strains of modern civilization.

Farley Mowat demolishes this image as a tragic myth... a cruel myth because it hid from the public conscience the truth that the Eskimos were being decimated by starvation, neglect, disease and inept "civilizing influences."

Mowat calls for recognition of the realities: That the traditional primitive life of the Eskimo is impossible under modern conditions. He warns that continued attempts to keep them isolated from the rest of Canadians and to force them to continue the ways of their ancestors is to doom them to early extinction.

He says in his foreword: "This book is also, so I believe, an irrefutable argument for the full and immediate emancipation of the surviving Canadian Eskimos from the intellectual, economic and social confinement which was imposed on them more than half a century ago."

"Most of the people of whom I write are gone, and cannot be recalled. It is for us to say whether the surviving Eskimos of Canada will follow them, or whether, as has happened in Greenland, Alaska and Siberia, the native people of the Canadian Arctic will become a revived and newly vital element in the complex of mankind."

"There are now belated signs of a lightning on the sombre horizon of the Canadian Arctic; but this may be no more than the illusion of a false sunrise in a polar winter, unless we resolutely set ourselves to expunge a damning reflection on our own pretensions to humanity, and unless we commit ourselves unequivocally to make amends."

Mowat had armed his critics with his first book, "The People of The Deer," published in 1952 as a result of his first visits to the Keewatin district in 1947, shortly after his return from army service overseas. His inexperience and his impatient indignation, Mowat himself admits, put just enough errors into that first book to make it possible for his critics to discredit it.

But the Mowat anger continued to boil. He continued his researches through documents and records. Then last year he paid another visit to the tattered band of 43 Inuit survivors of whom he writes. This time he took along a tape recorder and he was careful to get evidence and documentation for every charge he made.

Not Rockets, but Faith —Princess Margaret

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret said Wednesday mankind has erred in seeking an escape in rockets while leaving his soul "morally earthbound among the television sets."

"In these days a plethora of material gains are constantly being offered as ideal goals for prosperity and happiness, and we need the inspiration of our Christian faith to maintain our spiritual resources to help us over our problems," she said.

Princess Margaret made the comments when she dedicated a new school.

"I am particularly glad to hear that there is a determination to turn this into a church school, in fact as well as in name and to link it with local churches," the Princess said.

"It is no good for man to seek escape in lunatics and rocketry and to leave his soul morally earthbound among the television sets and express bars," she said.

$5,000 Pay For Wreck Information

VANCOUVER (CP) — The CNR has posted a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of anyone responsible for the derailment of a crack passenger train in the Fraser Valley last Tuesday.

The train, a west-bound Continental, hurtled through a tattered switch and crashed into a dynamite-laden boxcar. Three persons were injured but there was no explosion.

Announcement of the reward came late Tuesday after railway investigators said a lock on the switching mechanism had been deliberately broken.

Willard Ireland:

Sunken Ship Not Spanish

Chances that the Royal Canadian Navy has salvaged pieces of a Spanish ship some 200 years old were described as "pretty slim" by a B.C. historian yesterday.

Provincial archivist Willard E. Ireland was commenting on the navy's recovery of an anchor, mast and other articles from a shipwreck located in 35 to 70 feet of water at Sydney Inlet, 125 miles northwest of Victoria.

Navy divers probed the wreck for the first time last week and brought the relics back to Victoria for identification and as a display for the British Columbia Maritime Museum at Esquimalt.

CARBON-14 TESTS

A naval spokesman said yesterday that samples of the wreckage have been turned over to the Pacific Naval Laboratory where they will be subjected to Carbon-14 tests to determine their age.

But determining age of parts of the wreckage may not help much in identifying the wreck, Mr. Ireland pointed out, because the ship could have been 60 years old when it sank.

He said the tests would probably not indicate the length of time the ship had been submerged.

First Spanish vessels came to these parts about 200 years ago, he pointed out, and their movements are well known to historians.

NOT SPANISH

He said he could not recall ever having heard of a Spanish vessel being lost in British Columbia waters.

The historian pointed out that the Spanish ships used for exploration in this area were fairly small, one was just over 30 feet in length, whereas the navy has described the Sydney Inlet wreck as about 145 feet long carrying an anchor which originally weighed close to 5,000 pounds.

"I would doubt that it is a Spanish ship," Mr. Ireland said.

"I'm pretty sure no Spanish ship carried a 2½-ton anchor." But he said the anchor might well be the best clue to identification of the mystery ship.

"Anchors took on very definite shapes at certain points in history," he added. Also, he said, it is unlikely a Spanish wreck would be found in Sydney Inlet, in spite of the fact that it is only some 20-odd air miles from Nootka Inlet where a Spanish governor once reigned for five years.

HISTORICAL VALUE

"The Spaniards' weren't traders, you know, they didn't go poking around very much into inlets and things."

He said that superficial examination of the facts connected with the shipwreck indicate it may date from the mid-1800s, and that if this is so it may be more valuable to historians than a Spanish wreck.

"Our early history is pretty well known, but there are gaps in the middle of the last century."

ROUGH SPARS

He said that if what appeared to have been a load of logs among the remains of the sunken ship were actually ships' spars in the rough, the sinking might be pinpointed around 1850 to 1860 when it is known that a few ships called to pick up spar material.

Meanwhile, the navy is going ahead with plans to lay out the relics for inspection by old salts in the Victoria area with the hope they can shed some light on the vessel.

Makes First Solo

Flying Reporter Keeps Tradition And Plane Intact

By TED SHACKLEFORD

I flew solo at last, and almost ruined a flying tradition.

A student pilot's first solo landing is traditionally perfect and mine came close to being considerably less than that.

Monday I managed to lick the trouble I had in landing, by sneaking a quick look at the ground beneath me as I came in.

HOW FAR?

The landing is made while the pilot is looking at the runway to the front of the plane. I found it hard to judge just how far above the runway I was at any given time.

But by taking a quick look down as I flew in over the end of the runway I found I had no further trouble.

NOT TOO HAPPY

I could have gone solo earlier, my landings had improved so much, but I was not too happy about holding the plane straight once I got it down on the runway . . . and I was chicken.

Finally Dave Filby, chief instructor of Victoria Flying Club, casually told me I was on my own.

I felt very, very lonely as I taxied the Canuck back onto the runway and pushed the throttle home.

TOO BUSY

But once the plane started moving I had no time to worry—I was too busy.

I kept the plane straight as it accelerated. I took off cleanly and smoothly. I climbed by the copybook, made a climbing turn to the left, climbed to 800 feet, levelled off and trimmed the plane as usual and cut the engine back to hold at 800 feet, and banked left again on the downwind leg of the standard, rectangular circuit. And then trouble started.

CALLED THE TOWER

When I took off my radio was close to the airport control tower and the volume was fine, but when I called the tower on the downwind leg, to get clearance to land, I couldn't hear the reply.

This is the final article in a series describing how reporter Ted Shackleford is learning to fly with the Victoria Flying Club.

While I was adjusting the volume control I found the plane was up to 1,000 feet.

So I took the plane down to 800 again, called up the tower again for clearance. This time I got the message.

PLANE "FLOATED"

I corrected for the crosswind, came in to the end of the runway, levelled the plane out and waited for it to gradually sink.

But being lighter than it was with two persons in it, the plane "floated" further than I was used to.

With the left wing slightly down, to counter the crosswind, I eventually dropped closer to the runway, pulled back on the control stick gently and landed without any further fuss.

So I managed—just—to uphold the tradition.

SLIGHTLY EXCITED

I celebrated with a cup of coffee in the Victoria Flying Club clubhouse. I wasn't really excited about flying solo—I just had a tendency to grab total strangers and tell them how it was.

Before this series ends I'd like to pay tribute to Victoria Flying Club, president Claude Butler, chief instructor Dave Filby, Mike Sealey, Art Smith, and Bill Adams, and everyone else who taught me, and encouraged me.

NON-PROFIT

The flying club is a non-profit organization, run solely to further the interests of flying, to promote the sport.

Its profit comes in satisfaction when a student wins his wing. Pretty soon I should get mine.

Girls Spoil Walk

BANDJARMASIN, Borneo (UPI)—Djundji Kusni, 19, who just completed a two-year walking tour through Indonesia, said the biggest problem during his trek was girls.

"So many girls kept falling in love with me," the youth said, "I was worried how I could return their love while on the trip."

Canada, Russia Set Scientist Exchange

MOSCOW (UPI)—The heads of Canada's National Research Council and the Soviet Academy of Sciences agreed yesterday on an exchange of lecturers and research workers in the academic year 1960-61.

Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the Canadian council, and academy president Alexander Nesmeyanov formalized the agreement with an exchange of letters at the academy here last night.

"I think the exchange we have worked out will be of the greatest benefit to both countries not only for information gathered but also for the experience of working with other scientists," Steacie said.

He said the Soviet-Canadian program in principle provided for an exchange of three lecturers per year for periods of up to three weeks. Similarly, there will be an annual exchange of up to seven scientific workers for periods up to nine months.

Sweepstake Winners

Victoria Cut Of Melon Pretty Slim

Lucky or unlucky—depending on where you're sitting—six Victoria sweepstake ticket holders will soon be sharing approximately $8,500.

Conceivably they could have won nearly $1,000,000 if their horses had not only run but run first yesterday in the Cambridge Handicap—basis for the Irish Sweepstakes. Top prize is $140,000.

However, only two had starters, Mrs. Florence Earl, 1323 Walnut, and A. C. Linn, 1123 Esquimalt Road. Their horses ran out of the money and they will receive $1,011 each.

Non-starter consolation prizes of approximately $1,600 will go to Mrs. John Potts, 1071 Richmond, and three unidentified ticket-holders. (See sports pages for details of the race.)

Altogether, 19 Canadians won a total of $1,092,000 in the sweep.

Three persons, in Western Canada each won $140,000 with tickets on the winning horse, Rhexequus.

The $140,000 winners were Mrs. S. Yokubouskis, of Denholm, Sask.; J. Garstad of Veteran, Alta., and George Brown, of New Westminster, B.C.

New CPA Super Jets Will Speed '61 Service

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian Pacific Airlines has ordered four Douglas Super DC-8 long-range jets for delivery early in 1961.

The company said in a statement issued here Wednesday it has also taken options on five more of the $6,000,000 planes.

The four-engine, 159-passenger giant jet can fly more than 6,500 miles non-stop. It will be used on trans-continental and trans-oceanic routes, CPA said.

The planes will be able to fly from Vancouver to Winnipeg in less than two hours; Vancouver to Tokyo in eight hours, and Vancouver to Europe in 8 1/2 hours.

Fortunes Won and Lost in Stretch

Irish Sweepstakes fortunes were decided in a driving finish yesterday as Rexus came from behind to win the Cambridge Handicap at Newmarket by half a length. Longshots won all the big money.

with Anthelon (16) second and Thames Trader, behind Rexus, third. Sanctum, at left, one of the favorites, was fourth by narrow margin. — (AP Photofax).

Speaking Briefly

Winner Almost Left in Stable; Grid 'Raiding' No Worry Here

Rexus, a horse who nearly didn't run, won by half a length as three longshots led the 117th Cambridge Handicap at Newmarket, England, yesterday.

Scottish trainer George Boyd almost withdrew Rexus because of expected equus because of expected tough going on a course baked hard by summer drought, but the three-year-old bay colt overcame the slick track caused by rain just before the race began.

Rexus, at 25-1, did the mile and one-furlong event in 1:05.8, with Norman Stark up.

storming to the front in the last 50 yards. Anthelon, a 33-1 shot, finished second, a head in front of Thames Trader, at 100-6. Favored Faultless Speech was in pack behind the first 12 horses across in the 36-horse field.

Despite U.S. claims that the new American pro football league will raid Canada's leagues, Canadian football commissioner Sydney Halter and football executives aren't worried.

Halter says Lamar Hunt, organizer of the new league, said the circuit "would be pleased to enter" an agreement respecting Canadian contracts.

B.C. Lions' Herb Capozzi said raiders and players "must remember that raiding is a two-way street." Montreal's Ted Workman said if there are any raids "we will go to court and win every time."

JOE CRONIN, American League president, says the baseball circuit will drop plans to add two new teams in 1960. . . . hockey veteran Grant Warwick, who leaves Canada Nov. 13 for a 30-day lecture-and-play tour of Europe, says the Polish national hockey team may make an exhibition tour of Canada early next year.

Sport organizer William Cox of New York has announced formation of the International Soccer League, a 10-nation professional league. European members, probably champions of their own nations, will come to New York for all games. . . . field of 11 is expected at Garden State track in Camden, N.J., Saturday for the 1959 Garden Stakes, at $255,075 the richest horse race in the world.

Calgary Stampede of the WIFU have rehired assistant coaches Frank Filchick and Bernie Witucki for another season.

BOBO OLSON, former middleweight champ, has been barred from seeking Archie Moore's light-heavyweight title in a proposed San Francisco bout. California athletic commission said Olson hasn't met any of the ranking 175-pounders. . . . president Ted Workman of Montreal Alouettes has issued a long statement praising Penhead Walker but it still looks as though Walker is "through as coach." Edmonton of the WHL has sent forward Eddie Johnson, 21, to Omaha of the International Hockey League. . . . Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale, until now a TV star only in shaving commercials, will turn "serious" for a role in the Lawman show. . . . latest from the statisticians in the Big Four is that Ottawa's Dave Thelen needs nine yards against Toronto Saturday to set a league rushing record.

Emotion Sways Judgment

Even Bookies Have Bug

VANCOUVER — This city is so crazy about its B.C. Lions that even the bookies are letting emotion sway their judgment.

Edmonton Eskimos, who open the two-game total-point WIFU semi-final against Lions here Saturday, were nine-point favorites with most Vancouver bookies until home-town coach Wayne Robinson made a speech the other day.

He said: "Having come to the Tar, we plan to go right on and represent the West in the Grey Cup."

With that, some bookies lost their minds and started quoting six to five and take your pick. By last night, sanity had been restored and Eds were

Cougars Get Right Team At Just the Right Time

By JIM TANG

A lot of little things go into the building of a winning streak, including a certain amount of luck—luck in scheduling and luck in playing your poorer games at the right time.

And that's what happened to Victoria Cougars in last night's Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena. Obviously showing the effects of scheduling which brought them back home for a game 24 hours after playing in Spokane, the Cougars had what was probably their poorest game of the season. But their opponents

Ford got what proved to be the winner when he batted the puck in from the right side during a power play. It was the seventh power-play goal of the season for the Victoria club, which has been scored on only once so far while playing shorthanded.

Fashaway, getting the puck from ex-Cougar Don McLeod near mid-ice, got the stride he needed and blazed a quick shot past Francis from about 20 feet out at 12:32 of the second period to clinch matters. Johnson poked in the rebound from a blueline shot for Spokane's only score two minutes later.

Kilburn and Dorohoy Keep Canucks Rolling

CALGARY — Colin Kilburn and Eddie Dorohoy are doing just what everybody expected them to and as a result Vancouver Canucks are coasting along in front of the Western Hockey League with a four-point lead.

It was the same old story Wednesday night as Kilburn and Dorohoy teamed up to lead Vancouver to a 4-2 win over Calgary Stampede as 3,549 fans watched referee Willie Papp struggle to keep feuding players under control.

Kilburn scored two goals, including the winner at 9:05 of the third period. Dorohoy assisted on both to move into the tie for first place in individual scoring with Seattle's Rudy Filion.

The pair of goals gave Kilburn seven for the season and five with five assists. Dorohoy, returning to Calgary for the first time since being traded by the Stampede to Vancouver in the off-season, upped his point total to 16 on two goals and 12 helpers.

Other Vancouver goals came from Ray Cyr and Bruce Carmichael who fired into an open net with 58 seconds remaining.

TOP SCORER
Sid Finney, top WHL goal-scorer with eight, and Gordon Vejpava scored for Calgary.

Referee Papp assessed match penalties to Vancouver's Ralph Keller and Calgary's Wayne North. Major fighting penalties went to Dorohoy, favorite target of the Calgary defencemen, and Doug Barkley of Calgary.

Vancouver's Larry Cahen swelled his league-leading penalty total to 52 with a second-period misconduct. Players on both sides took numerous runs at each other. Former Stampede Dorohoy, Sandy Hucl and Dave Duke were hit hard and often by a Calgary defence that included Hugh Currie, traded to the Stampede by Vancouver this season.

FROM BEHIND

Calgary had to come from behind twice to gain a 2-2 tie after two periods. Finney had scored in the final second of the opening period to offset a goal by Kilburn and Vejpava's goal at 18:35 of the second triggered the fight between Dorohoy and Barkley.

After Kilburn had put Vancouver in the lead for the third time, Calgary coach Gus Kyle yanked goalie Claude Pronovost with 70 seconds remaining. Ray Cyr picked up a loose puck from the faceoff in the Vancouver end and fired rink-length with Carmichael snapping the rebound off the boards and pushing it into the open net 12 seconds later.

Vancouver was forced to go with three defencemen after Keller was handed the match penalty along with North, a rookie. Both received cuts to the head in the stick-swinging duel.

Canadiens, Red Wings Tie Despite Early-Game Leads

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, well ahead of the pack in the National Hockey League, took early leads in a pair of spectacular games last night—then had to settle for ties.

Red Wings, who gave up only seven goals in their first seven games, blew themselves out after outscoring the Rangers 3-0 and outshooting them 29-4 in the first period at New York. Rangers tied it up with a three-goal attack within five minutes of the third period.

Canadiens, given an early lead by Maurice Richard's 52nd NHL goal, couldn't put the lead and saw Dickie Duff tie it up when Toronto had a one-man edge with less than 15 minutes to go.

Results left Montreal still four points ahead of Detroit, but Wings have three games in hand. Their game started a road trip that continues in Boston tonight and ends in Montreal Saturday.

CAUGHT FIRE

Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk was bidding for his third shutout when Rangers suddenly caught fire. Camille Henry woke up the crowd of 10,284 with a rising 35-foot drive that went over Sawchuk's left shoulder at 3:38 — Henry's 100th NHL goal.

Andy Bathgate tipped in a long shot by rookie defenceman Irv Spencer at 5:05 and Andy Hebertson got the third in the outburst, capping a three-man play with a short backhand at 8:27.

Sawchuk, who hadn't allowed more than two goals in any previous game this fall, said he hurt his left leg against Montreal Sunday and "it bothered me a bit in the third period."

NOTHING LEFT

Red Wings had started like world beaters. Jerry Melnyk, Gordie Howe and Gary Aldcorn (set up by Howe) scoring before the first period was done. But they had nothing left, getting only five shots in the second period and six in the third, none especially dangerous.

Playing their fourth game in five nights, Canadiens went ahead as Richard, zooming in on Leaf goalie Johnny Bower, took a perfect pass from Dickie Moore at the crease and slashed a low drive beneath Bower.

Duff evened it up in the third period by swerving past Tom Johnson and Doug Harvey and giving Jacques Plante no chance with a short, hard shot. Plante, flattened in the first period when checked low by Johnny Wilson behind Montreal's net, came back in the second to make 16 saves, three of them great ones against George Armstrong.

In the dying minutes, Jean Beliveau broke away with a chance for the winner. He tried to snap a shot while Bower was on his back but Leaf defenceman Carl Brewer checked Beliveau to the ice.

Duncan Hunters Fined

A Duncan man was fined on three separate charges laid under the Game Act in Cofwood police court yesterday, and a second Duncan man under a single charge.

Ernest Nigel Pickard was fined $25 and costs for hunting at night; $50 and costs for refusing to stop for a game warden, and $10 and costs for having an untaxed deer.

In addition, his rifle was confiscated.

Leonard Robert Wilson, also of Duncan, was fined $10 and costs for hunting at night, and his hunting licence was confiscated.

Duff evened it up in the third period by swerving past Tom Johnson and Doug Harvey and giving Jacques Plante no chance with a short, hard shot. Plante, flattened in the first period when checked low by Johnny Wilson behind Montreal's net, came back in the second to make 16 saves, three of them great ones against George Armstrong.

In the dying minutes, Jean Beliveau broke away with a chance for the winner. He tried to snap a shot while Bower was on his back but Leaf defenceman Carl Brewer checked Beliveau to the ice.

Edmonton Eskimos, who open the two-game total-point WIFU semi-final against Lions here Saturday, were nine-point favorites with most Vancouver bookies until home-town coach Wayne Robinson made a speech the other day.

He said: "Having come to the Tar, we plan to go right on and represent the West in the Grey Cup."

With that, some bookies lost their minds and started quoting six to five and take your pick. By last night, sanity had been restored and Eds were favoring again, by eight points.

Meanwhile, Lions officials warned fans that over-enthusiasm could cost their heroes the game.

President Harry Spring said referees could have stopped the game against Calgary last Saturday when fans surged onto the field before the last play. They didn't—Lions won 10-8—but Spring warned they might this time and said Lions have even considered building a fence around the field.

Lions have also defended their secret practices this week, backfield coach Dave Skrien pointing out that Calgary followed a new rollout offensive play perfectly. "as if they knew exactly what we were doing."

Coach Robinson reported that defensive halves Sonny Homer and Baz Bagle, out recently with injuries, will play against Edmonton.

'Lifeless' Boy Snatched From Mother, Revived

VANCOUVER (CP) — The story was told last night of how a bread delivery man snatched an apparently dead boy from his mother's arms and breathed life into him.

Jack Smith, 30, a qualified first aid man, blew 10 breaths into the mouth of Robin McQuaid and brought him back to consciousness Tuesday after he had accidentally hanged himself in a tree.

The boy had slipped while playing in a tree near his home in neighboring North Surrey and the drawstring of his parka caught on a broken branch. He swung there slowly choking while his elder brother, Gregg, 5, ran home and told his mother "Robin's in a tree. He was crying but he's sleepy now."

Mrs. McQuaid said the boy was "black and lifeless" when she cut him down. She started to run to her house when Mr. Smith snatched the boy from her arms and breathed into his mouth.

U.S. Senator Backs Siberia-Alaska Dam

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska) urged the United States and Canada to give "prompt and sympathetic consideration" to a Russian proposal to build a dam across the Bering Strait between Siberia and Alaska to block frigid waters of the Arctic Ocean and warm the northern hemisphere by at least eight degrees.

Gruening said he would seek congressional approval in January for a joint Soviet-American study of the plan and suggested Canadian scientists be invited to participate.

Civil Servants Rally

Boos, Catcalls Drown MP's

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 2,500 civil servants attending a mass "salary rally" here last night silenced two Progressive Conservative members of parliament with thundering boos and catcalls.

Ernest J. Broome (Vancouver South) and John Drysdale (Burnaby-Richmond) went to the platform after keynote speaker J. Cal Best, of Ottawa, president of the Civil Service Association, addressed the meeting.

Mr. Drysdale said if civil servants employed a system of collective bargaining under compulsory arbitration it would leave parliament in the position of not being able to control spending on the civil service payroll.

Attempts to elaborate on the remark were drowned out.

"I want you to know there has been sincerity on both sides," said Mr. Broome, Howls of derisive laughter and catcalls greeted the remark.

He added that Finance Minister Fleming was sincere in his reasons for not granting a pay increase to civil servants. Shouts, laughs and catcalls followed.

"I stand here as a representative of your employers, the government of Canada, and have come here to listen to you. Why can't you listen to me?" he said.

Mr. Best said the national joint action committee hoped to start a groundswell of public opinion which would force a full parliamentary debate on the issue.

"We are not going to keep the kid gloves on any longer," The rally endorsed a resolution asking Vancouver locals of the Civil Service Federation and the Civil Service Association to support an earlier policy statement which said civil servants were against strike action.

The meeting later passed an amendment to the resolution that strike action be withheld until parliament discusses the issue in January.

Community Chest Nearing Objective

Greater Victoria's Community Chest campaign is not going to reach its $325,000 objective by closing date next Wednesday, but officials are still hopeful of reaching it eventually.

At present, they have set a new objective of $300,000 by Wednesday. After that, they will lay plans for an extension of the drive and an all-out campaign to find the other $25,000.

"I feel certain we will get the $300,000 by Wednesday all right if all canvassers get their money in on team captains as soon as possible," campaign chairman Eric Mallett said yesterday. "But that extra $25,000 worries me."

"I know it's there somewhere. It's just a case of finding it. People have to be made to realize that we have 22 agencies this year instead of 20, so that they will raise their donations accordingly," he said.

"One of the big complaints about charity collections has always been that there are too many of them. Well, if we can reach our objective this year it will bring more agencies into the Chest, and bring a truly united appeal that much closer," Mr. Mallett concluded.

Total yesterday was $210,477.79.

CBC Reaffirms Basic News Aims

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Wednesday reaffirmed its basic policy towards news broadcasts, talks and public affairs programs.

A statement issued by the CBC board of directors said its policies in these fields were "of the highest importance to broadcasting in Canada."

"The integrity of the CBC news is based on the primary conception that this service is in the nature of a public trust; to present by radio and television all the significant news of the day's happenings in Canada and abroad factually, without bias or distortion, without comment, and in a clear unambiguous style," the statement said.

Also mentioned were these points: The board affirmed the CBC's long-standing policy that news broadcasts should not be sponsored.

The board considered the news service as of prime importance in the overall CBC service.

Subject matter of talks and public affairs programs should be as varied as the interests of listeners and viewers. The CBC must aim to present a variety of viewpoints about a large number of subjects on which there is a difference of opinion.

The CBC must be completely independent in the field of opinion broadcasting and the board supports the public affairs broadcasting policies developed by the corporation over the years.

If a subject is matter of concern to a significant section of the population, the corporation is justified in providing a platform for discussion of it, whether the subject is controversial or not.

Red Wife Returns To Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — Mrs. Nina Dmitrieva, a Russian diplomat's wife who was granted permission to stay in Britain last June, returned to Moscow by air Wednesday.

A British government spokesman said: "She left London airport for Moscow with her young daughter. Her decision to go home was entirely personal."

"There is no evidence to suggest that anyone had forced the decision upon her against her will."

Wife of a naval attaché at the Russian embassy, she asked for political asylum in Britain May 28.

Arrow Test Pilot Wins Top Aviation Award

MONTREAL (CP) — Test pilot Janus Zurakowski of Toronto Wednesday night was awarded the Trans-Canada trophy for his contribution to Canadian aeronautical achievements.

Had 'Strange Feeling' About Level Crossings

OTTAWA (CP) — A few days ago, Mrs. Grace Sim, 24-year-old clerk with a steel company, told her fellow workers she was afraid of level crossings.

"They terrify me. I have the strangest feeling about them."

Wednesday, she, her husband, Warren, 31, and their children were all killed at an unprotected level crossing less than a mile from their home in Ottawa's southern outskirts.

HURLED 100 FEET

The locomotive of a CPR-CNR pool passenger train hurled their small auto almost 100 feet through the air.

They had left home only a short while before on their way to work and school. Mr. Sim was a draughtsman, Wayne was in grade one and Peggy in kindergarten.

"This is one of the worst level crossing accidents I have had to deal with," said Coroner Dr. J. S. Cross, after examining the mangled bodies in the auto's twisted wreckage.

TURNED DOWN

Only last month, city traffic director M. Thor Nielsen, in a report on priorities, had recommended against installation of an automatic signal or barrier on the Hunt Club Road, a quarter of a mile west of Highway 31.

His reason was low traffic volume. But he recommended review of conditions "from time to time in the future."

Fleet Street Editors Shed Tear for Butler

LONDON (CP) — The hard-boiled editors of Fleet Street shed a sentimental tear Tuesday on hearing that the Queen's press secretary Esmond Butler is heading back to Canada to be Governor-General Vanier's Aide.

"He brought a breath of fresh air to Buckingham Palace and to Britain," said Bernard Drew, news editor of The Sunday Express. "We'll all be sorry to see him go."

Suburban Sprawl Just Like Cancer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The "cancer of the suburban sprawl" is killing Canadian community planning, a Vancouver architect said here Wednesday.

C. E. Pratt, a member of a three-man committee of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada now making a country-wide appraisal of residential areas, made the comment in a press conference. The committee opened hearings here that will continue until Saturday.

Mr. Pratt said small groups are building residential areas without any idea of the total effect of their actions. The action was "like throwing a little piece of good meat into a great big cancer tissue and saying: 'Isn't that lovely?'—while the whole thing is sick. "The cancer of suburban sprawl is well on the way to killing us."

Island Roads Urged

ALBERNI — A multi-point program for the development of Vancouver Island was urged by Claude Harrison, former mayor of Victoria, when he addressed a meeting of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association in St. Andrew's Church hall Tuesday evening.

"The meeting was sponsored by Alberni Ratepayers' Association, with the Vancouver Island group's president, G. E. Bonner, in the chair.

NORTHERN ROAD

Mr. Harrison's proposed program tied in with a recent brief he had prepared on the possible bridge between Vancouver Island and the mainland. He told the audience that Island residents should insist that a road be built to the northern part of the Island on a route through Campbell River, touching on the Nimpkish, Gold and Heber rivers, Anutz Lake, across Kipapa River to the head waters of Cluxewe River and then to Port McNeill.

FEASIBLE ROUTE

He contended that this was the most inexpensive and most feasible route; that it would open up resources which would guarantee at least 50 years of prosperity.

Mr. Harrison declared that also essential was the extension of Beaver Creek Road along the south shore of Comox Lake to Cumberland; dredging of the mouth of Somass River to enable deep-sea vessels to come to Alberni; building of a west coast road from San Juan to Bamfield and up the Alberni Inlet to the twin cities.

WITHOUT GATES

He said that all roads should be declared government roads, that none should have gates shutting out the public at certain times, that old logging roads, crooked and with extreme grades, should not be included in the public road system but that straight and reasonably level roads should be provided. He criticized the San Juan Road and the Alberni-Tofino Highway routes.

B.C.-Bound Old Ships In Trouble

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two of three lake steamers used during construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway and being brought here for conversion into barges have hit trouble in the Panama Canal.

William G. Dolmage, general manager of Kingcome Navigation Co., purchasers of the three steamers, flew to Panama 10 days ago to investigate the trouble, company officials said. First reports were that the 240-foot steel ships have developed leaks.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower plans to enter Walter Reed Army Hospital soon, possibly later this week, for his annual head-to-toe physical examination.

'Other' Mona Lisa To Smile in Texas?

Arabs Mass On Border

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The United Arab Republic and Jordan are maintaining unusually heavy troop concentrations near their borders with Iraq, it was reported Wednesday.

Western diplomats estimate 17,000 to 18,000 troops now are in frontier areas.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "other" Mona Lisa, a disputed version of the Da Vinci masterpiece valued at $1,500,000, may get a home in a Texas museum.

The Vernon family, owners of the painting, and the prospective purchasers in Houston, Tex., confirmed yesterday that negotiations "are going on and have been for some little time." But neither party would say how near to a sale the negotiations have got.

Purchase of the painting would rank as one of the biggest art transactions in American history. A reliable report indicates the Vernon family already has turned down an offer of $800,000 for the work, but this could not be confirmed.

Christian W. Slagle, family spokesman, said, "This painting is the hottest thing in the art world even though it is an eighth of an inch away from complete authentication. But one must remember that the Louvre Mona Lisa has a mystery of its own."

The beautifully preserved Vernon Mona Lisa is believed by many experts to have been painted by Leonardo da Vinci in 1512, five years before he painted the nearly identical but more famous canvas which hangs in Paris' Louvre.

Firm Border Steps Nehru's Promise

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said Wednesday his government would take firm steps to halt Chinese Communist frontier encroachments, reliable sources report.

He talked amid widespread Indian anger over frontier "trespassing" by Chinese Communist troops.

Italians Ignore Fascist Birthday

ROME (UPI) — Benito Mussolini's Blackshirts marched on Rome 37 years ago yesterday to install Fascism in power and start an era which ended in the Second World War.

Few Italians even noticed an anniversary which for two decades was the nation's biggest festival. Mussolini staged his march on Rome Oct. 28, 1922. The late King Victor Emmanuel III did not try to stop the coup d'etat and appointed Mussolini as premier.

Cheques Reach Victoria

Police and banks of Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island are keeping close watch for phony travellers' cheques, following seizure at Nanaimo of a number of the cheques and appearance of a Montreal man in court.

In Vancouver Thomas Francis Berigan, 34, of Montreal, pleaded guilty to 20 charges connected with counterfeit travellers' cheques.

To date, at least five of the cheques are known to have been cashed in Nanaimo, and eight in Victoria—all in the amount of $50 and all believed from the same source.

NATION-WIDE

Indications are that the operation is on a nation-wide scale. The seized cheques, taken by RCMP at Nanaimo Tuesday, are faked Bank of Nova Scotia travellers' cheques, created so cleverly that only the absence of a water-mark distinguishes them readily from the genuine article.

Cheques cashed in Victoria and Nanaimo were presented late last week. At almost the same time cheques to the extent of about $5,000 were cashed in Winnipeg and a warning was issued in Toronto that the city was about to be flooded with phony $100 cheques.

Car Theft Admitted In Court

Robert Rory Fraser, 20, of Langford was remanded for sentence when he pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to one charge of car theft and three of taking a car without the owner's consent. One of the charges was laid in Colwood and one in Duncan. These were waived to Victoria and read before Magistrate A. L. Thomas, now sitting during vacation of Magistrate William Ostler.

Court was told Fraser took one car from the Jutland Street parking lot of B.C. Forest Products, was involved in an accident at Harriet and Burnside where he left the scene. He returned to the Garbally Road lot of the same firm and took a second car.

This was abandoned at Colwood when it ran out of gasoline. There he took a third car from the B.C. department of highways yard at Langford, driving it through a locked gate.

The theft charge was laid at Duncan, where the third car was abandoned and another taken from a used car lot. This last car was found at Colwood.

Central Saanich Allays Fears in Brentwood

More than 75 Brentwood residents gathered last night to hear Central Saanich council outline the proposed water bylaw that asks ratepayers to vote for the purchase of the federal government Elk Lake-Patricia Bay pipeline and the building of a 500,000-gallon reservoir on Mt. Newton.

As Brentwood already has a water supply agreement with the government and have their own water district, some concern was expressed that Central Saanich would want to take over the system.

Councillor W. F. Grafton assured the meeting that the new system would not affect Brentwood residents. They could buy water from the system in bulk as they have been doing.

Consulting engineer Russell Potter explained the pipeline and the pumping system. He said it was most practical and that little could go wrong with the equipment.

Asked about the condition of the pipeline Mr. Potter said that samples had been cut from it and after 14 years it showed little sign of wear. "It should last another 40 years," he said.

aircraft carrier to Japanese breaking yards.

The Cambrian Salvor, Yokohama-based unit of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., left here with the Liberty ship in tow and will pick up the carrier in San Francisco.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police searched door-to-door through Chicago's night club and hotel district last night for a distinguished judge of the federal appeals court who had vanished without a trace.

Judge W. Lynn Parkinson, 57, an Indiana jurist with a reputation for quick, strong decisions, had been missing more than 48 hours—ever since he walked out of the Appeals Court building Monday bound for a haircut and the purchase of a birthday gift for his wife.

A fellow judge, Win G. Knoch, and a court bailiff thought they saw Parkinson an hour later, at 5 p.m., on the tavern-encrusted corner of State and Division Streets on Chicago's near north side.

Search for the grey-haired judge in the blue Homburg and navy blue coat led policemen to gift stores, barber shops, drug stores, bars, restaurants—anywhere the judge might have stopped. The cold, grey lake shore nearby was searched. There was not a clue.

An amnesia theory arose from the fact that Parkinson's last known words as he left the courthouse were a complaint about a pain in the back of his head.

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The federal government has ordered British Columbia to repay "a few million dollars" contributed to construction of a Trans-Canada Highway route through the Fraser Valley, Premier Bennett said Wednesday.

Mr. Bennett, speaking at a sod-turning ceremony which marked start of construction of the $25,000,000 Port Mann bridge, said he has been notified B.C. has to return monies given for the former route.

The bridge will be part of the new Trans-Canada Highway running from Hope, at the northern end of the Fraser Valley, to Horseshoe Bay, 40 miles northwest of Vancouver on the coast.

The premier also criticized the federal government's contribution to the new system.

He said it had contributed nothing of the $6,000,000 needed for required right-of-way, none of the engineering costs and only 50 per cent of the cost of two highway lanes. In places it will eventually be eight lanes.

Marriage Counsellors Ready to Help Today

Formation of a special marriage counselling service "to fill a public need" was announced yesterday by the Family and Children's Service.

Starting today, social workers Gerard Lortie and Mrs. W. L. Lortie will be available on a full-time basis at Spencer House to discuss problems with married couples in need of advice and help.

"We have had many inquiries about such a service,"

David Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service, said last night. "It's in response to these calls that the service is being put into operation."

"It will operate under a fee system, because we wish to make it as self-supporting as possible," he added. "But any couples who can't afford to pay can still receive the service."

The service will be restricted to counselling only.

Malahat Casualty 'Unchanged'

No change was reported yesterday in the condition of Barbara Joan Lawton, 19, of 1050 Southgate, critically injured early Sunday in a Malahat highway crash that killed two men and injured two other persons.

Miss Lawton underwent brain surgery in Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday. She also suffered extensive additional injuries.

The other injured, Jacqueline Mackey, also of 1050 Southgate, and Chris Morgan, 22, of 406 Quebec, are in "fairly good" and "good" condition.

Single Centre

Ballroom New Site For Ballots

City voters probably will continue to cast ballots at a single downtown voting centre in December civic elections.

Council will be asked to approve establishment of the voting centre in the Victoria ballroom, Cormorant and Government, only half a block away from the city's traditional polling place, the now-demolished public market building.

The building formerly was a roller rink.

City clerk Frank Hunter said yesterday he will recommend the move following a survey of downtown locations. He said: "This one seems ideal for our purpose. It has a level floor. It's empty. There are two entrances and a single exit. And it is well-heated by a gas furnace."

McKinnon Fund Now $840

Many smaller donations, but all given in the same spirit as larger gifts yesterday afternoon brought the Archie McKinnon appreciation fund total close to the $840 mark.

The fund, begun last Friday, will finance a convalescent trip for the YMCA physical director, injured two weeks ago during a comedy act at the Crystal Garden, and his wife.

Fund headquarters at the Victoria "Y" was busy yesterday accepting contributions from many young members who know what Archie McKinnon has done for them and others.

Woman Crawls For Aid

Mrs. Bessie Brazil, 62, of 676 Battery, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in city police ambulance for treatment of a broken wrist, caused by a fall at the rear of her home.

After the fall, Mrs. Brazil crawled to the street in front of her house, where she called for help. A neighbor telephoned police.

Halloween 'Humor'

Firework Lit On Cat's Back

A small white cat, its leg hurt and its fur singed from firecracker burns, was an early victim of the warped humor of Halloween pranksters last night.

Someone caught the cat, taped a firecracker to its back, lit it and let the cat go. It was found, mewling pitifully and licking at the tape still on its back, by Norm Urquhart, 13, of 538 Alpha Street.

"I was on the way home when I heard it crying," Norm said last night. "It's leg was hurt."

The incident occurred shortly after SPCA officials, who took the cat for treatment, had issued a warning to keep all pets in the house on Halloween.

"Every year shocking things are done to dogs and cats with fireworks in the name of Halloween fun," an SPCA spokesman said.

REEVE WURTELE
... head of team

Wurtele Runs Again Because 'I Like Job'

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night he will definitely seek election in December to a fifth consecutive two-year term as reeve of Esquimalt.

Announcing his decision to run, the reeve said: "I like the job. Esquimalt has an excellent council and we work well as a team."

Reeve Wurtele became a councillor in 1945 and kept his seat until 1951 when he resigned to successfully contest the reevehip for the first time.

All Island Schools Closed Tomorrow

It will be "no school" tomorrow for Vancouver Island pupils, including the 26,000 at Greater Victoria, Saanich and Sooke schools.

Closure is caused by the annual conventions of teachers—1,000 secondary school teachers meeting in Victoria and 1,000 elementary school teachers meeting in Sidney.

New Look Reverses Decision

Victoria-Esquimalt health board yesterday reversed its previous stand and decided by unanimous vote to recommend that fluoridation plebiscites be held in all four Greater Victoria municipalities this December.

But last night Reeve A. C. Wurtele indicated Esquimalt will stand by its decision not to hold a fluoridation vote this December.

Trustee Richard Reeve, health board chairman, said he called the special board meeting to "have another look" at the previous recommendation to delay any fluoridation vote until results of a dental study now being conducted in Greater Victoria schools are known.

LITTLE CORRELATION
"On consideration," said Mr. Reeve, "I am satisfied there is little correlation between the school study and the issue now being considered."

The chairman said he had also taken into consideration the fact that this was a mayoralty year which would attract a large turnout of voters. He added that the Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to carry out a public education campaign between now and election time.

"Personally," said Ald. M. H. Mooney, "I think people know enough about fluoridation and they have made up their minds already."

BENEFIT OF ALL
"Sooner or later the people will have to admit that fluoridation is for the benefit of all—not just for the few," said Ald. D. J. Proudfoot.

"We should (recommend) it now or not at all. We're always shelving things, putting them off. It's up to us to guide the people and advise the councils and we should be willing to stand up and be counted."

Trustee W. C. Thomson said he was willing to move for rescinding of his original resolution to delay the vote until sometime next year. He said at the time he proposed it "things were very quiet and the Chamber of Commerce seemed to have forgotten about fluoridation. The publicity which followed the board's action brought the issue to life again."

ABSENTEES VOTE
Two absent members of the health board indicated they favored the new stand. Ald. Lily Wilson gave a written proxy vote and Coun. G. K. Sammon was called by telephone.

The board voted in favor of sending letters to the municipal councils recommending the December vote and drawing attention to information disclosed by medical and dental experts at a recent meeting sponsored by the health board.

"I don't think any of us are concerned that we may be criticized for changing our minds," said Mr. Reeve. "But I think we ought to include some facts which have been drawn to our attention."

LASTS THROUGH LIFE

Ald. Mooney said he was sorry the more municipal representatives did not attend the meeting.

"Fluoridating is not just for children up to the age of 12," he said. "People benefit from it all through life. And we were told by a city dentist that people who come to Victoria from areas where natural fluorides exist in the water soon suffer rapid deterioration of their teeth."

"Also, a doctor told us that fluoridation is not harmful to the body."

Clothes Sense Can Save Lives

With arrival of season of dark, often rainy evenings, Greater Victoria police renew constant plea for pedestrians to make themselves visible. It may not always be possible to dress like Mrs. Mae Myhre, left, in light clothing that is readily seen in car headlights. But solid dark costume like that of

Mrs. Barbara Barnswell, right, should be avoided. White gloves, white armband, even a white handkerchief or newspaper carried in hand, will loom up in car headlights and perhaps save your life. —(Colonist photos.)

View Royal

Residents Will Vote On Status

View Royal residents will vote Nov. 26 on whether they want to incorporate their district as a village or have it remain as provincial unorganized territory and a regulated area.

William Maude-Moore, 226 Stormont, has been named returning officer and polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Some 1,700 residents live in the 1,050-acre area of View Royal district which will be affected.

Boundaries for the proposed district are north along the Trans-Canada Highway to the Saanich boundary on the east, follow Portage Inlet and the Gorge down to Garthland Road, along Garthland to Craigflower, up Craigflower to Admirals, along Admirals to Hollowell, along Hollowell to Esquimalt Harbor, to just beyond Parson's Bridge and then in a northeasterly direction to Trans-Canada Highway to form the westerly boundary.

'Peace Price' Concern

Dr. John Peters, president of World Neighbors, Inc., will be guest speaker at a public meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at St. John's Church Hall.

Dr. Peters, of Washington, D.C., recently returned from a tour of Asia, Africa and the Middle East. His topic will be "The price of peace—your concern."

Traffic Office Girl Justice of Peace?

The city is thinking of making the girls in the police traffic office justices of the peace.

City prosecutor Terence O'Grady said last night that Vancouver cashiers taking parking money were justices of the peace.

"They can take the guilty pleas of the offenders on the spot," he said, "or refer them to a magistrate if they want to plead not guilty."

Press Municipalities Woodsworth Advises

It would only cost Greater Victoria municipalities an additional $10,000 to set up the recommended juvenile and family court, a Canadian Mental Health Association meeting was told here last night.

"They'd spend as much on a lamppost as they need to establish this court," said David Woodsworth, director of the Family and Children's Service.

EXERT PRESSURE
"Initiative must come from the municipalities," he said. "We must bring pressure to bear on them."

The court has been recommended by the attorney-general's department as a more efficient arrangement for the area than the present six separate courts. The money must come from the municipalities.

Mr. Woodsworth pointed out that it takes $9 a day to keep a delinquent boy at Brannan Lake and $9 to $11 a day to keep a girl at the industrial school at Vancouver.

SAVE THREE
"If you save just three children from the industrial school for a year, you pay the cost of this new court," said the agency director.

He noted that the Victoria area is sending more juveniles per capita to industrial schools than Vancouver.

"And this is simply because Vancouver has a unified family and children's court, and we haven't."

UNIFIED SYSTEM

Mr. Woodsworth said that in his conversations with municipal officers he found that some of them believe the area problem could be solved by building a bigger detention home.

"They would rather build a $50,000 home than pay $5,000 for a probation officer."

"It's incredible," he said. "I think they rather like putting up buildings."

He said a new unified system would cut down the number of detention home inmates, and also end the present congested sessions and the numerous week-long remands.

ENERGY WASTED

The geographical jurisdiction now in effect leads to a great deal of confusion and overlapping, said Mr. Woodsworth.

He cited the common occurrence of a juvenile from one municipality who commits an offence in another municipality.

"The juvenile appears before the magistrate in Oak Bay and then they get into separate cars and go to another court. This is a waste of rubber and gasoline as well as psychological energy."

Mr. Woodsworth said it is vital that the staff of the proposed court should be specially trained.

"They must know what they're doing and be able to work with the families."

Present juvenile officers here have no special training, he said, and are appointed by the police chiefs rather than by the court. In many cases they do triple jobs—juvenile officer, probation officer and court clerk as well.

Cat Protectors Elect Officers

Mrs. I. D. Woods was elected president of the Cats' Protection League at the recent annual meeting.

Other members of the new executive are: Miss F. M. Bell and Miss W. E. Hughes, vice-presidents; Mrs. I. M. Kirby, treasurer, and Mrs. T. W. Kerswell, secretary.

'Millions Down Drain'

The "million or so dollars" spent on Brannan Lake school for delinquent boys "is just money down the drain."

This is the opinion of David Woodsworth, director of the Family and Children's Service, who spoke here last night on the need for a unified family and juvenile court with a properly trained staff.

"If we (the taxpayers) spent nearly the money we should," he said, "we'd spend it on staff, not on buildings."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: I seldom print literary contributions but I'd like to share with you this Prayer For Older People. The prayer was signed "Anonymous."

Here it is:

Lord, Thou knowest that I am growing older.

Keep me from becoming talkative and possessed with the idea that I must express myself on every subject.

Release me from the craving to straighten out everyone's affairs.

Keep my mind free from the recital of endless detail. Give me wings to get to the point. Seal my lips when I am inclined to tell of my aches and pains. They are increasing with the years and my love to speak of them grows sweeter as time goes by.

Teach me the glorious lesson that occasionally I may be wrong. Make me thoughtful but not nosy—helpful but not bossy. With my vast store of wisdom and experience it does seem a pity not to use it all. But thou knowest, Lord, that I want a few friends at the end.

Mother Shocked

DEAR ANN: What chance does an old-fashioned, doddling, senile mother (age 38) have with teenagers in this jet age?

I've been permitting my 13-year-old daughter to attend boy-girl parties. I wonder if I've been foolish. Her father has been driving her over and picking her up. We just assumed the kids were chaperoned and everything was as it should be. All her friends come from good families. We know most of the parents.

Last Saturday it was Rozzie's turn to host. I prepared the refreshments and was then told to "make myself scarce."

About 11 o'clock it seemed quiet in the recreation room so I decided to check. To my horror, the kids had turned out every light. When I flipped the switch I found them paired off—some girls were sitting on laps, other were off in corners with boys. I almost stumbled over a pair on the floor.

I immediately suggested they turn on the music and dance. It was apparent they resented the intrusion. I tried not to be obvious but I hung around until their parents came for them about 12:30.

My daughter is mad at me because "I spoiled her party." She says all the parties are like that; in fact most parents usually leave for the evening.

I don't know what to do. Should I speak to the other parents? They can't know what is going on.

And how can I get it across to my own daughter that cheap and promiscuous behavior results in a shoddy reputation and sometimes serious trouble? — OUT-DATED 38.

Parents' Responsibility

Dear Outdated: No teenage party should be unchaperoned ever. It is the responsibility of the parents to be on the premises and "drop in" periodically to see how things are going.

Speak to the other parents about what went on in your home. Before you permit your daughter to go to another boy-girl party check with the mother of the hostess and learn what her plans are for the evening.

If your daughter at 13 is smooching in dark corners, she needs a talking-to. If she's reluctant to listen to an old relic like you or me, let her read this column regularly and learn first-hand what happens to young girls who permit pawing and petting.

DEAR ANN: It's the little things that can get on a person's nerves and ruin a marriage.

My husband insists on lighting up a cigar just before dessert. Then he uses the dinner plate as an ashtray. When he's finished, he mashes the cigar in the leftover food and it makes me sick when I have to wash the dish. Don't tell me to tell him not to do it. I have a hundred times, but it doesn't help.—OLIVE.

Dear Olive: Ever hear of an ash tray—a nice big one? A man is not likely to mash the cigar in his left-over roast if he has an ashtray handy.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

All-Canadian

Canadian designers come into their own this season, and so do fabrics—like these made by Canadian Fabrics Foundation in Quebec. Tightly woven boucle tweed in Canadian wool (at top) combines French blue and black. At bottom a curved collar of mink adds brand-new look to winter suit of heavy, smooth-surfaced wool by a Canadian manufacturer. Mock pockets emphasize new longer line of jacket.

Hurts Avoided

Cosmetics Conceal Blemishes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Parents can erase or deepen the psychological scars of a child's physical disfigurement, says Lydia O'Leary, an expert on the subject.

Twenty-five years ago, Miss O'Leary developed a cosmetic to cover bad facial birthmarks, scars, burns, nervous disorders and disfiguring diseases, varicose veins, and prominent blood vessels. She had learned as a child that a birthmark can cause a lifetime of unhappiness, that the thoughtless stares and cruel questions of strangers never cease to hurt.

During recesses at school, she had hidden in the rest room and played alone, avoiding playmates' teasing about a flaming birthmark that covers one side of her face.

To help children who have encountered that misery, Miss O'Leary recently established a child foundation. In addition to disguising disfigurements, the foundation helps children overcome the emotional damage which blemishes inflict.

Generally, it's up to parents to help children adjust, said Miss O'Leary.

First, treat a scar or blemish lightly. "One does not make much of a freckle, so don't make much of a blemish," she advised. "No child should be given sympathy—not even once. Never let a child have self pity. A child doesn't have a chance in school if he has an inferiority complex. He will hide and retract every idea and thought of expressing himself."

Youngsters first must accept their disfigurements, then go on to improve themselves. Teach them to outshine the blemish with personality.

Never let a child conceal her face with hair or clothing. People will wonder what she's hiding.

"Just try to make the youngster understand that nature has never made one thing perfect. Have you ever seen a tree that is perfect? There's always a little broken line—that's what gives it beauty," she said.

Do Bras Help Girls' Morale?

that a leading foundation garment firm will soon produce bras for girls aged 10 to 12. Under an experiment in a secondary school in Buckinghamshire, 18 girls aged 11 and 12 will go to classes wearing bras.

The headmistress approves the idea. She says it is good for the figure—and the morale. "Most girls are half-shy and half-proud of growing up. By giving a girl a bra she feels that her new maturity is accepted."

This experiment—approved by the girls' parents as well—is not limited to one type of bra. A number are being tested, including one made with a two-way-stretch fabric which expands as the girl grows.

There are differences of opinion on the advisability of introducing young girls to bras. Although some, like the school headmistress, said that it will enhance the girls' morale, others said the motives behind this experiment are purely commercial, and that there is no real reason why girls of a tender age should wear them.

There is also the fear that premature preoccupation with their figures will tend to distract young girls from the more important arithmetic figures.

Tapestry artist Elizabeth LeFort shows her wool portrait of Pope Pius XII, to be presented in Ottawa tomorrow to the papal delegate.

Mothers Taught Daughters

Superb Tapestries Apex Of Ancient Canadian Art

By CAROL HOFFMAN
Special to The Colonist

Elizabeth LeFort's portrait of Pope Pius XII—a color portrait in wool tapestry—is the culmination of a Canadian craft two centuries old.

The portrait will be presented tomorrow to the papal delegate in Ottawa. "My work had developed from a craft handed down from mother to daughter for generations," explained Miss LeFort.

When the Acadians were expelled from Nova Scotia in 1756, a few families hid in the woods to avoid the British. Later they settled around Point Cross, carrying on the Acadian traditions.

"And for the next 200 years Point Cross mothers taught their daughters how to hook rugs and chair seats — as my mother taught me," said Miss LeFort.

Miss LeFort is the first to venture from design to pictures — from table mats to tapestry.

Third of Its Kind

The papal portrait, which will hang in the Vatican, is the third "head of state" portrait Miss LeFort has done.

She presented President Eisenhower with his portrait in 1957 and the Queen with her portrait at Sydney, N.S., last July. Miss LeFort is, as far as she knows, the first to have portraits hanging simultaneously in Buckingham Palace, the White House, and the Vatican.

Dyeing her own wool, mixing the colors as an artist does oils, is part of the secret of her success, believes Elizabeth LeFort. About two pounds of Cape Breton wool goes into a tapestry 29"x32" — the dimensions of the papal portrait.

Working from a rough sketch, it took 11 days to complete, working about eight hours a day. It has been valued at $10,000 — but will be donated free to the Vatican.

Started at 15

"I was 15 when I hooked my first table seat," said shy, retiring Elizabeth LeFort, who has lived most of her 45 years in Point Cross, speaks French and has only learned English during the last five years.

"Seventeen years ago I suddenly decided to do a Christmas scene in wool instead—

I liked the colors on a Christmas card," she explained.

From there she advanced to country landscapes, seascapes, boats and portraits. Now she has a gallery of more than 30 tapestries.

Her works usually sell between $250-$400. However her tapestry of the Last Supper has been valued at $15,000.

City Bride To Live In Alberta

In a recent double-ring ceremony, Beatrice Lorraine Hilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hilton, 3926 Helen Road, was married to Mr. William Robert Hartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hartley of Chilliwack.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of silk organza with a bouffant skirt and a sweetheart neckline trimmed with pearls. Her finger-tip veil was held by a seed pearl tiara.

A cascade bouquet of Hokoma carnations and Joanna Hill roses was carried by the bride. Flowers carried by her attendant, Mrs. Doreen Ashton, were white carnations. Mrs. Ashton's gown was turquoise dotted marquisette with matching headband.

The bride's uncle, Mr. F. B. Hilton, proposed her hand, at a reception in the church hall.

For her going-away costume the new Mrs. Hartley chose a dark avocado suit and matching cloche hat, with beige accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The Toronto groom met and married the 19-year-old former Miss Israel in less than three weeks while holidaying in Israel.

He says it wasn't love at first sight though. "I didn't fall in love with her until I had seen her three times," he explained.

The couple hopes to be re-married here in a few weeks when the bride is demobbed from a two-year compulsory army stint.

Typhoons Threaten Orange Crop

The first Japanese "Maru" will come a-steaming into Victoria the last week in November with a load of that holiday specialty—the mandarin orange.

Seems a little early to be worrying about Christmas food, but this year there may be a few changes in this particular item. Little playful typhoons have a habit of wrecking far east crops and this year, it is feared, the orange crop may have suffered. To what extent is not known by local wholesalers.

At this time of year, the Valencia orange, nearing the end of its season, is loaded with sweetness and flavor. The summer variety of orange, it naturally packs in more vitamins.

Apples are in the spotlight this week as mothers stock up to welcome massed goblins on Halloween. Candied or plain, the apple is probably the most frequent treat offered. Along with the crisp delicious and cheery red Macs is the apple of the future, a new variety that's been grown in the last few years called the Spartan, combining all the best qualities of the above. Graded from a low C to the double red, apples are priced at two pounds for 29 to 45 cents.

It's first-of-the-season Indian River grapefruit, pink or white, for breakfast table appetizers. Two for 23 cents is about the price.

At this time of year with a limited choice of fruit, bananas come into the sales picture. Price of two pounds is about 47 cents.

Local corn, yes, there's still excellent field corn available and will be for some time! Local broccoli and local cauliflower are good bargains this week, as well as cabbage and carrots.

And here's something of interest. All the local spuds this year have been given a bath before being taken off to market. Apparently, it's easier to grade a potato when it's clean and hence the washing machine treatment. There may be a shortage this year from time to time but it will be only temporary.

The White Rose variety have all been unearthed and the Gems are in the process. There are some very good prices being offered this week.

in seasoned melted butter and rolled in rice cereal crumbs, then baked to a golden brown. Serve with baked potatoes and a crisp green salad.

OVEN CRISP SHRIMP

One and a half pounds fresh or frozen large shrimp, 2 cups rice crispies, 1/2 cup butter melted, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Peel shrimp, leaving the tail if desired. Remove sand veins; rinse and dry thoroughly. Crush rice crispies into medium-fine crumbs. Melt butter; combine with seasonings. Dip shrimp in seasoned crumbs until well coated. Place in shallow baking pan lined with aluminum foil. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 15 minutes or until tender. # Young Artists' Works Catching Public's Eye

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

Something very nice has been added to the art life of Victoria. I mean the new Apollo Art Galleries on Broad Street.

This was my first visit. I had been east for a few weeks and had visited all the galleries large and small, in Montreal and Ottawa. It was immensely stimulating.

But in the smaller galleries I had not seen anything laid out better than the Apollo Galleries here. The old rooms have been transformed and the current exhibition of the work of Flemming Jorgensen and Michael Morris is well worth a visit.

These two young painters are studying with Herbert Sieber and the criticism must be that their work is frankly derivative but it is freely derivative, very good in color and appears to be selling well.

Michael Morris has been longer with Herbert Sieber and shows signs of breaking away from his very strong influence. But with all students the influence is hard to throw off, or, I should say, hard to assimilate successfully without losing one's individuality.

Distinguished teachers cannot help imprinting their own style on their students. This is not by any means a bad thing as it lifts the student out of his very ordinary vision into a realm of greater imagination and incidentally of much improved painting.

Flemming Jorgensen is of Danish descent and gives one the impression of being quietly analytical. His painting at present appears to be an exploration of the possibilities of shapes and color movement. The structure is loose, but deliberately so.

This is not the case, however, in his smaller work, in his drawings and monotypes, where his line has a crispness and authority which one finds convincing and distinguished. I like "Landscape," "Development," and "Harbour at Night" interest me most.

Michael Morris shows a maturity surprising in one so young. His oils are sombre but rich and harmonious. They are also forceful, with well-defined structure.

Michael is a Vancouver Island boy whose home is in Sidney. Completely dedicated to his art, he has been drawing from a very early age. He still has a very early way to go before he has "anything to say." This is evident in his largest painting, "Beach."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Once upon a time people believed in fairy tales. They gathered around the professional story-teller and listened to him by the hour as he told them about kings and princesses, fierce ogres and wicked step-mothers, witches and sorcerers, powerful magic and high adventure, valiant warriors and fair maidens. And they believed every word of what he told them, because he was their one and only newspaper and history textbook combined. He said all these things really happened, and he was a man who ought to know.

And those fairy stories and folktales were handed down from generation to generation all over the world, and were finally printed in books and listed in the monumental Motif Index to Folk Literature, which you can find in any large library.

And TV writers and literary hacks in search of material can look up the Index and use the ancient plots all over again with new settings in Fairfield County or Dead Man's Gulch.

Millions Made Happy

But by and by people lost faith in their story-tellers and began to think their stories didn't really happen but were just made up. And they began to call them fiction and admitted sadly that there was no such thing as magic and no glorious adventure in real life, and that wonderful things happened only in books and movies.

Then someone had the bright idea of telling fairy tales in print as if they'd happened to real, live people. And he printed those stories in the first

Live Hollywood Stars

And the press agents rejoiced and people read happily about all the wonderful things that happened to all those actual, live Hollywood celebrities and they believed every word of what they read.

And they read, through their tears, how Kim Novak put her arms around Cary Grant, gently, and kissed him on the cheek.

"Goodbye," she said. She watched him as he tried to smile, then as he turned and walked slowly away.

"It's better this way, Cary," she whispered, when he was gone...

Yes, that's what happened at the end of Kim Novak's brief bittersweet romance with Cary Grant on the French Riviera, and if you don't believe me, you can look it up in the latest issue of Modern Screen.

New Brunswick Law

Hotel Tests 'Hypocrisy'

FREDERICTON (CP)—New Brunswick's liquor laws, criticized by hotel, labor, and even police groups, remains a controversy here during adjournment of a test case at Campbellton.

Retention of the 31-year-old provincial Liquor Act, with strict enforcement, has been urged by church and temperance groups. Other groups, without taking sides, have called for a study of the situation.

The test case at Campbellton involves a charge that the Chateau Restigouche there kept liquor for sale. The hearing resumes Nov. 24.

The charge followed an RCMP raid after the hotel's solicitor, J. C. Van Horne, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Restigouche-Madawaska, announced that

Seventeenth Summer Doll Soon to Show in Victoria

It's just a couple of weeks until the Theatre Guild brings to Victoria audiences what is undoubtedly the first highly successful product of the Australian theatre.

This is "Summer of the Seventeenth Doll" which, with an all-Australian cast, was hailed in London and on Broadway as "full of vigor and sincerity." It made a tremendous impact on London audiences.

The play, by Ray Lawler, is to be directed by Phyllis Dulmage and has a strong cast.

Among these are Anabel Cranston, Marlene Dixon, Dorothy Dunbar, Elizabeth Mayne, Terry Murray, Richard Litt and Jim Cosh. The play opens on Nov. 14 at Langham Court Theatre, and runs through to the 21st.

The Studio group, now with 68 members, is in the throes of preparing "Toad of Toad Hall" for presentation Dec. 16 to 23 at Langham Court. "Toad" is played by Cliffe Clarke; "Badger" is John Martin; Tony Maynard plays "Water Rat" and "Phoebe" is Helen Marmo.

There are more than two dozen other players, practically all teenagers, with direction by Tony Burton.

Meanwhile, studio lectures are being given by Sheila Marmo on voice production, by John Martin on stage technique, by Tony Maynard on make-up, by Tony Maynard on stage construction, by Adele Fahey on hand props and costumes by Flo Williams, Anabel Cranston and Margaret Kirkwood. Vivian Briggs who is in charge of the choreography for "Toad" lectures on mime.

A life membership in the group in recognition of long and constructive service, was given to Percy George who, with a break of one year, led the Guild as president for five seasons.

Named as delegates to the Committee of the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival were Mrs. Creagh Allen, Miss Grace Tuckey and Jim Dulmage.

Labor, Boss Both Guilty

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor management have both done "an excellent job" securing investment capital away from British Columbia, George A. Wilkinson, vice-president of Marwell Construction, and a former union leader said yesterday.

Callas Crowd Cleared

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The 3,500 persons attending a concert by opera singer Maria Callas were ordered out of the Midland Theatre Wednesday night after a report a bomb had been planted in the orchestra pit.

Those evacuated included former President Truman.

Governor James T. Blair of Missouri went on the stage after Miss Callas finished a number and said:

"We have been informed there is danger to the audience and the management asks that we clear the theatre for 30 minutes."

A theatre management spokesman said he had received a telephone call from someone who told him "there is a bomb under the orchestra pit timed to go off at 9:30."

Fighting for Sight

Condition of nine-year-old Larry Lysne, 3204 Kingsley, whose left eye was cut in the explosion of a firecracker Monday, was reported as "good" at Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday as nurse Mrs. Betty Johnson makes him comfortable. However, it won't be known until today whether sight in that eye can be saved.

Grin, Wave Open Line

ST. FELICIEN, Que. (CP)—Waving and grinning, Donald Gordon drove a main-line diesel engine into this Lake St. John town Wednesday to open officially a 133-mile line between the Chibougamau mining country and industrial Quebec.

Shooter, Slasher Jailed

NELSON (CP)—John Franklin McGee, 53, was convicted of a charge of attempted murder and sentenced to five years and six months imprisonment in assize court here Wednesday.

He was charged after a woman with whom he had lived for 16 years, Beatrice Elsie McGee, was shot and slashed with a pocket knife in a Rossland cafe June 29.

Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said there was no doubt McGee had formed an intent to kill the woman.

"Only a series of fortunate happenings saved you from facing a more serious charge," the judge said.

Mrs. McGee was shot in the head and abdomen and had her throat slashed in a cafe where she was working.

Old Farmer's Almanac

Going Strong Since 1793

After Storms, It Tackles Grackles

If you happen to be wondering how long your she-buffalo will take to produce its young (315 days), or when to expect the first grackle of the season (second week in March), help is on the way.

The 168th consecutive edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac, a remarkable booklet which can turn into a weather prophet or give you the recipe for nasturtium salad, comes out tomorrow.

It will tell you that oysters prefer to spawn during the moon's first quarter or that the next total eclipse of the moon will be on March 13.

From The Old Farmer's Almanac you can learn that robin eggs usually hatch in 16 days, but can go to 19, and that you use six (count them) tablespoons of horehound leaves (with stems) to make a pan of horehound candy.

You can find out when the season opens on alligators in Georgia or whether your 14-year-old son can get a driver's licence in Arkansas (he can).

In its colorful history it is famed for having been used by Abe Lincoln to win a murder case (the case rested on the whereabouts of the moon on a certain day at a given time) and with having correctly predicted a "rain, hail and snowstorm" for Boston on a midsummer day.

Dr. Szczawinski stressed the need for wild life conservation.

PEOPLE OF CANADA FEDERAL CIVIL SERVANTS ARE APPEALING TO YOU

- Because Our employer has refused to implement the salary increase recommended by the Civil Service Commission.
- Because The Government has given an unfair and biased picture of the issue.
- Because The Government, our employer, provides no appeal from its unilateral decisions.
- Because We, as civil servants, have no appropriate system of collective bargaining.
- Because We believe that the public wants its employees adequately paid and fairly treated.
- Because We do not ask for special consideration but equality with the rest of the working population.
- Because All workers in Canada except Government employees are protected from unfair employer practices by labour legislation.

HERE IS THE TRUE STORY OF THE PRESENT SALARY DIFFICULTIES OF CIVIL SERVANTS

JAN. - MARCH 1958 . . . Civil service organizations present their case for salary increases.

MAY 1, 1958 . . . Prime Minister Diefenbaker says, "For many years it has been generally accepted that two main principles should guide the determination of salaries in the Service. First the salaries must be enough to do the job, that is to attract enough of the right kind of men and women into the Service and keep them in it; second, they must be fair as between Civil Servants and people outside the Service, the taxpayers if you will, which means that the salaries we pay for any class of work should be comparable with those paid by private employers for similar classes of work, taking into account the other terms of employment that are necessary to make a fair comparison. I think these principles should continue to guide us."

JULY 17, 1958 . . . Civil Service Commission acting under Section 11 of the Civil Service Act which states, "The Commission shall, from time to time, as may be necessary, recommend rates of compensation for any new classes that may be established hereunder, and may propose changes in the rates of compensation for existing classes," recommended that Civil Service salaries should not be increased.

SEPTEMBER 1958 . . . Government accepts CSC recommendation and releases its report for public information.

OCTOBER 1958 . . . Prime Minister tells civil servants that they must wait for the next Civil Service Commission report before any salary action can be taken.

JANUARY 1959 . . . Prime Minister repeats his October position and stresses the importance of an independent and impartial Civil Service Commission able to make recommendations based on the factual information supplied by the Pay Research Bureau which had been established by the Government for that purpose.

MAY 1959 . . . Pay Research Bureau report completed and given to the Government, The Civil Service Commission and the employee organizations.

JUNE 1959 . . . The Civil Service Commission makes its salary recommendations to the Government under the terms of Section 11 of the Civil Service Act.

AUGUST 1959 . . . The Minister of Finance tells the employees through the Joint Action Committee that further clarification of the report is required and that no action can be taken until this has been accomplished.

OCTOBER 13, 1959 . . . Without prior warning the Government tells Civil Service that it cannot implement the Civil Service Commission's recommendations because of the cost and further that they would not have accepted these recommendations even if the money were available.

ARE THESE THE ACTIONS OF A FAIR EMPLOYER?

- Should the Government have refused even partial implementation of these recommendations?
- Should the Government refuse to release the Civil Service Commission's recommendations?

PEOPLE OF CANADA

YOU are our ultimate employer.

YOU are our court of last resort.

Change Ways or You're Sunk Williston Warns Woods Industry

Substitutes Stealing Markets

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (CP) — Lands and Forests Minister Williston warned yesterday unless the lumber industry changes its whole merchandising technique, lumber may soon be replaced by other building materials.

In a speech to the Canadian Wood Development Council the minister said per capita consumption of lumber is dropping fast and predicted that by 1975 use of wood in the average home will have been reduced by 18 per cent.

RAY WILLISTON
... time has come

The minister said he feels the answer lies in standardization and shipping in prefabricated units instead of selling lumber piece by piece.

"It is my most sincere feeling that the time has come—I hope it has not already passed—where we must do something about the packaging and marketing of our lumber products in standardized form and that these standards must be handled by units.

"It does not make sense to handle lumber board by board, from job to job, when costs of handling are so high. It does make sense to research the market to find out what would be the most acceptable package for the customer."

Mr. Williston said he has "sensed—even been told by members of the forest industry—that because of production costs, we must more and more resign ourselves to a North American market... nobody but ourselves can afford our product.

"A country primarily dependent on exports for its livelihood cannot continue producing an export that the world cannot afford to import."

Wood was no longer a cheap building material and was being challenged by aluminum, steel, glass, plaster-board and stone.

A house could easily be built of plastics, paper or aluminum. If people stopped buying lumber, "it is the new interior B.C. industry that will take it on the chin first," he said.

999 Idea Still On Line

Telephone dial cards for emergency numbers seem to be a dead line for Greater Victoria but an emergency number system may some day ring the bell.

This was indicated yesterday as being the attitude of B.C. Telephone Co. by Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt, speaking as a representative of the Greater Victoria inter-municipal committee.

"The company is very much opposed to the dial cards," said the reeve, "on the grounds that people would never use them and also that most subscribers would never get around to putting the cards on the phones."

Reeve Wurtele said there was more hope for the emergency number system — "maybe not the desired 999, but perhaps 111."

"The company said it might be fairly expensive," he said, "but when the mayor and the reeves reach agreement, we can ask for an estimate of cost."

Save Youths Of Hungary UBC Plea

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Norman MacKenzie of UBC has urged an appeal to the "body of world opinion" to halt the executions of 150 Hungarian teenagers.

He asked students to write to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Green urging that the matter be taken before the United Nations "for any other appropriate agency which might be in a position to intercede."

Television star Ed Sullivan said on his program Sunday the teenagers will be executed when they reach the age of 18 for their parts in the Hungarian revolt of 1956.

Dr. MacKenzie made his statement at the request of Dean Kalman Roller, head of the Sopron forestry division of UBC, for help in initiating a campaign against the executions at UBC. The Sopron group escaped from Hungary during the revolt.

Vancouver Keeps Trying For Indies Ship Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver committee seeking federal government shipbuilding contracts for British Columbia will continue its campaign despite the fact that a similar bid by a Victoria delegation was turned down in Ottawa Tuesday.

The committee, led by Mayor Tom Alsbury, met yesterday to complete its brief to the federal government.

Victoria's request that the government allocate to B.C. the contract for one of two freighters Canada will give to the West Indies Federation was refused Tuesday.

A report from Ottawa said Prime Minister Diefenbaker declined to see Mayor Percy Scurrah's delegation but told reporters the contracts would be let on a low-bid basis and allocation was out of the question.

HBC Parkade Opens Today

Hudson's Bay Company's 470-car parkade is to be opened officially at 8.30 a.m. today by Mayor Percy Scurrah. He will cut a ribbon and lead a motorcade of civic officials and long-service employees of the Company through the two levels of the new parking buildings at the rear of the store. Invited guests after the opening will be piped into the store for breakfast, and special prizes will be given to "lucky" customers using the parkade on the opening day.

Mid-December

West Big Four Ready to Meet

LONDON (Reuters) — Western capitals warmly welcomed an announcement yesterday from President Eisenhower that he and leaders of Britain, France and West Germany were ready to meet.

Eisenhower's meeting with Prime Minister Macmillan, President de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer is expected to take place in Paris in mid-December.

There is one major complication. The annual Paris meeting of NATO leaders is scheduled to start in Paris Dec. 14. Some diplomats here speculated this date may be altered.

British officials said Macmillan gladly will agree to the Western summit meeting as long as it does not clash with the NATO conference. At the same time, they said, he still would prefer Western summit talks in November.

Macmillan now recognizes his hope for East-West summit talks this year cannot be realized. But at least the Western leaders' meeting will help iron out differences over the timing of a conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

PROBABLE DATE
It is believed here the most probable time for a Western summit meeting is between the end of Adenauer's visit to de Gaulle Dec. 2 and the NATO conference.

French government sources said de Gaulle is counting on exhaustive consultations among the Western allies. He believes, they said, that an East-West summit meeting that does not produce major results would be dangerous to world peace.

In Bonn, West German officials applauded Eisenhower's statement.

'Negotiate Every Chance'

PARIS (Reuters) — Canada's External Affairs Minister Howard Green today told the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's permanent council that the West should miss no opportunity of negotiating with Russia, but should not build its hopes too high.

Green, on a week's visit to Paris, was welcomed to the NATO meeting by Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak, who paid tribute to Canada's contribution to the Atlantic Alliance and its ever-increasing role in world affairs.

Green emphasized the importance of interdependence of the 15 NATO members. He declared no NATO power should make final decisions without the NATO council first discussing the matter.

Green addressed the council before meeting British ambassador Sir Gladwyn Jebb and presiding at two meetings of heads of Canadian diplomatic missions in Europe and the Middle East.

He is due to meet Friday with President de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville.

Lombardo Lasts 30 Years

Sweetest Music Quits New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — An era that has been fading for years came to a definite end Wednesday with the announcement that Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians will not be back at the Roosevelt Hotel this season.

That means no single big New York Hotel will have a dance band — the Lombardo's were the last.

"Hotel dancing is dead," explained general-manager Neal Lang of the Roosevelt.

Lombardo's Royal Canadians, last of the big name bands, have been a fixture for 30 years, probably the longest run any band, or any entertainment, ever had in New York.

The Ontario-born Lombardo's band is leaving on a cross country tour of one night and one week stands like the ones he and his brothers made when they were youngsters fresh from Canada.

"It's still the 'sweetest music this side of heaven,'" Lang said.

Votes Beat SIU

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC) said Wednesday it has won eight of 11 certification votes completed so far in its West Coast jurisdictional battle with the independent Seafarers' International Union.

The ballots were ordered by the Canada labor relations board among seamen employed by West Coast shipping and towing companies following a long and sometimes violent dispute between the two unions.

The CBRT announced eight results Wednesday and said it had won six of them. It was given a majority in two out of three votes completed earlier this month.

Official results of the government-supervised ballots are to be announced by the board, Nov. 4. The board will also decide which union will represent the employees of the individual companies.

Montreal Probes Teen Vice

MONTREAL (CP) — The chairman of Montreal's executive committee has ordered Police Director J. Albert Langlois to investigate a newspaper's charges of night club and teenage vice in Montreal.

J. M. Savignac called his order a "last warning" and said "if they (the reports) are true I am ordering the director to wipe this out or I will act accordingly at the coming session of the provincial legislature."

City hall observers say Mr. Savignac is ready to ask that a police commission be set up.

The charges appeared in a French-language weekly. One article said students at a Protestant high school had formed a "non-virgins" club.

Health Action Sought

Members of the Victoria-Esquamalt health board are seeking quick action on proposals that will lead to a new setup for the board representing the two municipalities and Greater Victoria school board.

Ald. M. H. Mooney told yesterday's board meeting: "I am greatly concerned over the time being taken in bringing forward plans for setting up the new board."

JOINT MEETING

Board members agreed to seek authority for all six of its members to attend a joint meeting to hear the proposals for the new board set out by solicitors for the three member bodies.

Trustee Richard Reeve, chairman, said if this permission is granted the health board will be able to meet immediately following the joint hearing to take any necessary action.

The school board earlier this year threatened to break away and form its own health services unless a "properly constituted" health board was set up Dec. 1.

Dog, Drake or Duck?

Hermann Bird Plenty Mixed Up

When psychologists said recently the chance for "a rare study in animal behavior" died with Hermann, a male South Dakota duck who tried to be a dog, they evidently didn't realize just how rare it might have been.

Although University of Chicago psychologists mourned Hermann's death because they would not be able to find out if he could be persuaded to want to be a duck again, a Victoria man has pointed out from news accounts of the incident that the loss may have been even greater.

Hermann may have been the only male member of the duck family who was ever able to quack, according to Cecil Hyndman, proprietor of "Featherland" a bird and pet zoo on Burnside Road.

Descriptions of Hermann recounted how he at one time quacked around the barnyard chasing lady ducks before tiring of this sport and trying to become a dog.

Mr. Hyndman can't decide which is funnier, a male duck that quacked or one which wanted to be a dog.

"The males don't quack at all, you know," he said.

Awards for smartness and efficiency in the performance of sunset ceremonies during the 1959 season will be presented this week to two Victoria military groups.

Presentation of the reserve militia shield to RCAF 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Centre will be made by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow at 8 p.m. tonight in the Bay Street Armory.

RCN Sea Cadets of HMCS Rainbow will receive the cadet service shield from Mayor Percy Scourah at 7.40 p.m. tomorrow in Rainbow Headquarters on Robert Street.

Tory Admits 'Patronage' Distribution

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Menzies, a defeated Progressive Conservative candidate in the Ontario election last June, said Tuesday night he distributed "patronage" from both federal and provincial governments.

He had been able to hand out a "little patronage" in the area from the provincial government, he said. He did not elaborate.

Mr. Menzies was speaking to about 30 members of the Trinity-Bracondale Progressive Conservative Association. Later in the meeting he said "the press is not here tonight and I can speak frankly."

Reporters, however, were present.

SCENIC REGION

The cathedral at Como in the scenic lake district of northern Italy was started in 1396.

There is still time for Greater Victoria residents to submit suggestions on how the B.C. Electric bus service can be economically improved, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquamalt said last night.

Reeve Wurtele, chairman of a special transportation sub-committee of the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee, will meet with officials of the B.C. Electric today to deliver a number of letters sent by the public.

Among the suggestions already sent to the sub-committee were:

The Colville bus should connect with the Victoria West bus, by diverting down Lampson to Craigflower, and returning to Colville by way of Tillicum, to allow Gorge and Esquamalt residents to visit the other areas without travelling to Victoria.

Munro and Colville buses shouldn't go to Victoria after 6 p.m. with transfers being made at Head and Admirals Road, giving a 20-minute service on the two routes.

Many persons complained that the timing of buses was poor—they arrive in Victoria too late for church services and night meetings.

A meeting between the BCE and the transportation sub-committee will be arranged for November.

Venus Observed

The planet Venus, which according to observatory officials is visible to the naked eye in daylight every clear day of the year, has been particularly evident for the past 10 days due to its position in relation to the sun.

In Duncan, scene of much "flying saucer" activity of late, the bright orb high in the southern morning sky collected crowds of people on street corners.

Venus was easily visible most of yesterday morning and appeared close to the moon.

It should be quite visible again this morning if the sky is clear.

Over Atlantic

Lofted

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—Space scientists here shot a 100-foot balloon to an altitude of 240 miles over the Atlantic Ocean about dusk yesterday, touching off "flying saucer" reports all along the Atlantic seaboard.

The rocket launcher, its vapor trail or the 10-storey high aluminum-coated balloon, which weighed only 130 pounds, were seen as far north as Boston and Ottawa and as far south as Florida.

People who saw the balloon described it variously as a "blimp with lights," a flame-spouting jet-assisted helicopter and two planes with lights flying extremely close together.

The balloon was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in one of a series of experiments the government hopes will lead to placing one of the balloons in orbit around the earth.

Viewers in the New York City area began reporting the flashing object about 20 minutes after it was launched along the Virginia coast.

The huge balloon was made of plastic with an aluminum coat only one-half of one-thousandth of an inch thick.

In the forthcoming experiments in space communications, the balloon will be used as a reflector. By bouncing signals off the balloon it should be possible to transmit signals thousands of miles.

At present, high frequency radio and TV signals cannot be received readily by stations more than 50 to 100 miles distant because they are blocked out by elevations and other physical obstacles such as tall buildings.

COMPETENCE, NOT SENIORITY
MAY BE TEACHING YARDSTICKB.C. May Pioneer Revolutionary Plan

British Columbia teachers are considering a revolutionary proposal which would sound the death knell on seniority as a major ingredient to advancement within their profession.

The precedent-shattering proposal has gone out to teachers from a special committee of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation chaired by Bernard C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

THREE TYPES

If adopted by federation members the membership committee's plan would:

1. Create three teaching classifications; instructor, teacher, professional teacher (with different salary scales for different school districts).
2. Place classification of all teachers in the hands of a BCTF board of review.
3. Classify members on the basis of competence, experience and educational accomplishment.
4. Limit salary levels available to the classifications of instructor and teacher.

PRECEDENT SET

Mr. Gillie said yesterday he believed it was the first time such a plan had been created within a teachers' organization "anywhere in the world, and I've gone into this kind of thing pretty thoroughly."

One of the objects of the plan, he said, is to end "public thinking that anybody who stands up before a blackboard and waves a piece of chalk is a teacher, regardless of whether he has been teaching six months or six years."

VOTE NEEDED

He said implementation of the plan will require changes in the constitution of the teachers' federation and is not likely to come before 1961. It will take a two-thirds vote of teachers to amend the constitution.

He said that if the plan is adopted it should end the complaint of B.C. school trustees that they cannot be qualified judges of teachers' competence.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

Under the terms of the proposal all persons entering the teaching profession will automatically become instructors and as such shall be limited to the first two steps on any school district's scale of annual salary increments.

After two years they may apply to the board of review for re-classification as teachers, and if they have not applied at the end of five years their classification will come up for automatic review by the board.

Teacher applicants will have to show that they have served two years as instructors and present evidence of competence based on reports of district superintendents of schools, directors of instruction and principals, plus any other information the board may require.

FIVE-YEAR WAIT

Teachers will be limited to the first seven steps on the salary scale and may not apply for reclassification as professional teachers until they have served five years as teachers.

Professional teachers would have to have a degree or its equivalent, present evidence of "continued competence" based upon the same sources as for the classification of teacher, present "evidence of professional growth acceptable to the board of review," plus any other information requested.

NO SALARY CUT

Upon implementation of the plan no present teachers would suffer a salary cut, and teachers who entered the profession prior to Sept. 1, 1956, could apply for professional teacher classification on the strength of "extensive experience as a successful teacher" in lieu of a degree.

The board of review, which would consist of "teachers of extensive training and experience and outstanding professional competence," would have the power to downgrade as well as upgrade members of the profession.

... 'reaction good'

Committee:

'Policing' Answer
To Public

A B.C. Teachers' Federation proposal that it police competence within its own ranks has been described by the committee which drafted it as "an answer to all those who decry automatic advancement."

The committee, chaired by Victoria's Bernard C. Gillie, said the plan "is our attempt to guarantee the competence of teachers, or at least to make it clear that we are not willing to have all classroom teachers lumped together, be they the qualified or the unqualified, the satisfactory or the very unsatisfactory."

"Many believe that we do a great disservice to the public, to education, and to ourselves by covering up."

City Hotel
To Cost

$1,000,000

Plans for construction of a 48-unit motel and a 100-unit, drive-in hotel in Victoria at a total cost of $1,000,000 have been announced by an American hotel chain.

City contractor Derryck Jackson of Cobble Hill, representing Doric Hotels, announced the plans yesterday. The Doric chain takes in 35 hotels with a total of 4,000 rooms, and includes the Saxony Hotel in Miami and the Ocotillo Lodge in Palm Springs.

The 48-unit motel is already under construction at 3025 Douglas Street, next to a restaurant being built by Paul Arsenault of Victoria.

Work on the hotel, which will be a five-storey building, begins in December at an undisclosed downtown location, and should be completed in May, 1960. The hotel will include a 100-seat restaurant and an Hawaiian lounge overlooking a heated swimming pool.

Winners
Got Help
On Quiz

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charles Van Doren had both questions and answers before appearances on the television quiz show, "Twenty-One," an authoritative source said Wednesday.

The source of this charge, told Fred Danzig, United Press, that to his certain knowledge big prize winners—with few exceptions—received pre-broadcast aid.

The source said that Van Doren received help over the rough spots.

'I'll Buy
Groceries'

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—"What are you going to do with all that money?" neighbors asked 77-year-old pensioner George Brown.

"Buy groceries," replied George. (See also story Page 7.)

Then the little bachelor hustled from his $12-a-month room here to the telegraph office and tried to cash the telegram which told him he had won $140,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes based on Wednesday's Cambridgehire handicap.

When they told him he couldn't cash a telegram, George toddled off to his old home in nearby Vancouver to pick up his pension cheque.

His pension is worth $55 a month. He gets another $20 in social assistance.

When reporters tried to question him, George said: "Go to hell. I don't want to be bothered by anybody."

George, who is almost totally deaf, didn't hear the radio broadcast of the race. He was one of three British Columbia pensioners who won one of the top three prizes.

Two Vancouver pensioners, retired building contractor George Scobie, and part-time tailor William Cliff, won second prizes of $54,000.

Charles Blackley of Lillooet, 54-year-old plumbing and heating contractor who draws a pension for service in the Second World War, won $28,000.

The only non-pensioner in B.C. to get a top prize was David De Camillis, 45, of West Vancouver, who also won $28,000.

Jorgen Barstad, a 29-year-old Alberta bachelor farmer with a longing for "small piece of land" of his own now can afford to buy it.

He won $140,000 Wednesday in the sweep.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada may still get the opportunity to explode an atomic bomb to free oil from Alberta's Athabasca oil sands.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

Mexico Hurricane Kills at Least 80

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Eighty persons are known dead and 100 missing in the hurricane-hit Pacific port of Manzanillo, reports from the area said Wednesday night. Estimates put the number of injured at 500.

It was feared many of those listed as missing would be found buried in the wreckage of houses and other buildings.

The hurricane raked the port Tuesday. Rivers fed by torrential two-day rains flooded large areas of the states of Colima and Jalisco.

Four Hundred Cut Off
By Landslide of Mud

ZAMBANA, Italy (UPI)—A landslide of mud yesterday isolated an estimated 400 persons in their low-lying homes

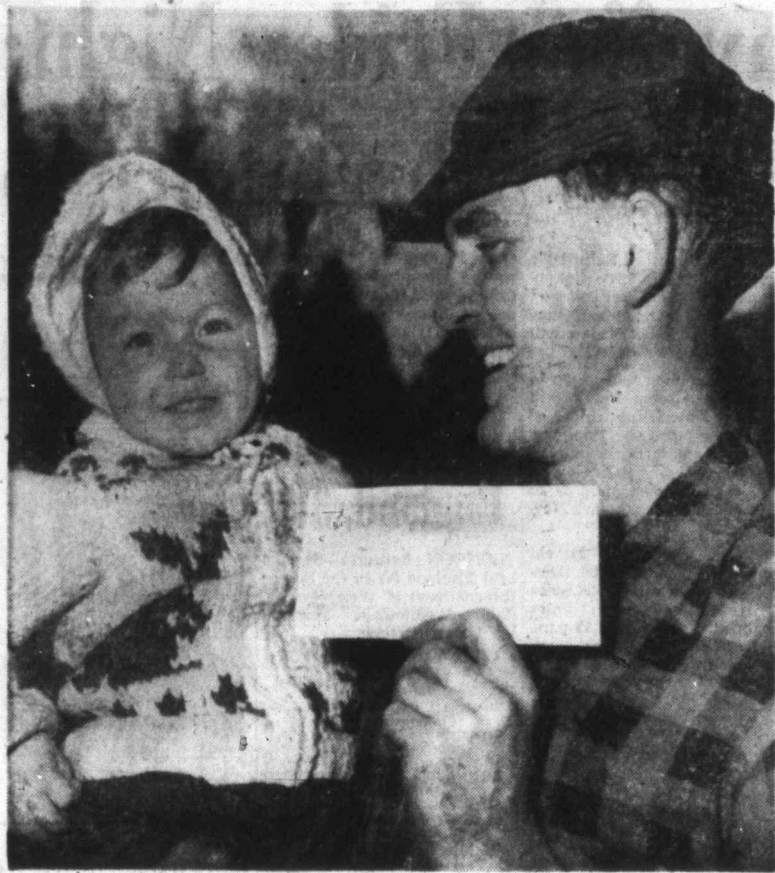

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—All 82 members of the United Nations have signed as co-sponsors of a joint East-West resolution calling for world disarmament under effective controls.

The queue for co-sponsorship grew during the day as the great powers urged support of the rare resolution and by Wednesday night spokesmen announced the list was complete.

Canada was one of the original seven co-sponsors of the resolution, negotiated chiefly by the United States and the Soviet Union in consultation with allies.

Vasily Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, stressed in this speech that "our partners demonstrated a constructive spirit which permitted a businesslike approach."

Astronomers Observe Venus As Island Skeptics Wonder

Strange Light Near Moon

DUNCAN—Government astrophysical officials may believe that a shining object seen near the moon yesterday was Venus—but there are a couple of skeptics here.

Reportings here varied with persons stating the tiny silver light at times seemed "oblong," "like a jellyfish" and "two spots that merged into one at times."

"I'm not arguing with them, but I'm just wondering. Venus is on an orbit and yet for most of the day it was nearly in the same position in relation to the moon," said V. L. Stanley-Jones.

First sighting reported of the planet—and he firmly believes it was Venus—was made between 5 and 6 p.m. from the Malahat by Ian Watson, a Colonist employee. "It was a bright ball of fire," he said. The planet and the thin crescent of the moon were visible on the eastern horizon.

About 7.30 a.m., Robert Johnson, 14, of Maple Bay Road, saw "something unusual" near the moon and notified his mother, who called Mr. Stanley-Jones, who has asked that anyone seeing unusual objects in the sky should telephone him.

Officials at the Dominion Observatory in Saanich told the Colonist shortly after 9 a.m. that the planet had been sighted by the staff, that it had been watched by them, and that it definitely was Venus. It was visible because of extraordinary light conditions.

To reports that it seemed to have behind it a trail or slipstream, officials commented that it might appear that way to the naked eye but that it was an illusion.

"I watched them with the binoculars and at times it appeared as though there were two of them and at times they seemed to merge," said Mr. Stanley-Jones.

His scepticism was backed by Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Carnac of Chemainus. Mrs. Carnac said she has an open mind but wondered what explanation could be given for such a brief reflection.

Small groups of persons gazing skyward were common in Duncan yesterday, wondering if the object seen near the moon was a flying saucer, a weather balloon or the planet, Venus. Officials at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich say it was Venus, seen so clear due to extremely clear weather conditions.—(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

'Saucer' Detected

DUNCAN—A glowing white light flashed across the sky here last night and gained added respect for a teenagers' flying saucer detector.

Soundlessly the object sped across this valley from Mount Tzouhalem towards Mount Prevosts "about 300 miles an hour," says Robert, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil H. Johnston of Maple Bay Road. He said he saw it "zigzagging" overhead between 7.05 and 7.10 p.m.

At about the same time, several miles away, V. L. Stanley-Jones of Richards Trail, heard his son Christopher's saucer detector sound an alarm.

"I heard the bell and thought the boys were playing with it and didn't pay any attention until Robert called me. Then I thought, 'Holy smoke, I missed it again,'" said Mr. Stanley-Jones.

The detector rang once recently when a sighting was made in the same general area.

Teachers 'Modify' Demands

DUNCAN—Cowichan teachers and trustees are narrowing the gap between them over 1959 teachers salaries.

Trustee Wilf Peck said yesterday teachers have "modified" their request for an 18.5 per cent wage increase for next year.

Original demands by the teachers were from $29 to $329 a month in the different scales.

Mayor Pays In Salmon On Lost Bet

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo Wednesday packed three salmon for shipment to Mayor J. E. Fitzwater of Kamloops after losing a bet that Nanaimo would reach its united appeal objective before Kamloops.

Mayor Maffeo caught the salmon—one 15-pounder and two 10-pounders—after fishing for three hours.

Baby Shares Delight

First large money prize ever won by Edward Rickett of Cowichan Bay pleased his daughter, Darlene, 2, almost as much as him. He won $100 for the closest guess on how many entries there would be in this year's Colonist King Fisherman contest.—(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

King Fisherman Luck

Guess Wins $100 For Island Man

DUNCAN—A Colonist subscriber who believes he is "just plain lucky" won a total of $100 yesterday for guessing closest to the number of entries to the popular King Fisherman contest, 23,227.

He is Edward Hugo Rickett, of Pritchard Road, Cowichan Bay, an avid fisherman who has entered many of his catches in the contest. His guess of 23,207 was 15 below the correct answer.

It won the former Victoria resident $50 and another $50 because he is a subscriber. The contest was held for Cowichan residents only.

"My wife figured maybe there'd be 21,000 entries. We looked it up in the paper and at the time there were already 20,000 so I guessed 23,207," explained Mr. Rickett.

With part of his winnings

Mr. Rickett plans to buy a gun. "I might as well get a gun rather than fishing gear," he joked. "They're not biting so I might as well get a gun and see if I can shoot them when they jump."

The rest of the money will be used to fix his car and to buy Christmas presents for his wife and daughter.

New Salt 'Shed' Ready Soon

NANAIMO—Construction of a $250,000 salt storage building at Nanaimo's assembly wharf is expected to be completed in December.

The building, to hold 5,000 tons of salt for use by the district pulp industry, is half completed.

Construction Makes Work

NANAIMO—Winter Employment Committee here was cheered yesterday by the fact that construction projects in this area are holding employment at a high level.

The committee did, however, emphasize the necessity for public support of a "Do It Now" campaign which will begin soon.

Paid-Up Members, 45 But Attendance, 58!

GANGES—Some 58 members of the Ganges Parent-Teacher Association attended the monthly meeting recently, although the association has only 45 paid-up members.

A report on paid-up memberships was given during the meeting by the membership convener, Mrs. W. Bridgen.

Mrs. A. McManus reported on the New Mothers' Tea, which is held each September to welcome Grade I mothers and also newcomers. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $48.

A letter was read from the principal, Mr. J. M. Evans, explaining the Student Accident Insurance, which is available at the school. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. A. Lamb and her commerce students who took care of all the clerical work of the insurance. The dental report given by Mrs. F. Hollings, stated that 40 children have been registered to date for dentistry.

The meeting decided that the annual Boxing Night dance in Mahon hall will start at 9 p.m.—an hour earlier than usual.

600 Miles, 18 Hours

Port Alberni Club Plans Car Rally

PORT ALBERNI—A 600-mile, 18-hour-long car rally covering most of Vancouver Island is planned for November by the Alberni Valley Rod and Custom Association.

No Annex

Cowichan Hospital Plan Vetoed

DUNCAN—Health Minister Eric Martin has "rejected at this time" a move to get a hospital annex at Lake Cowichan, said Mayor Jack Dobson yesterday.

The minister made his feelings clear at a meeting Tuesday in Victoria with representatives of a hospital improvement committee from Cowichan, Mayor Dobson said.

He added yesterday that Mr. Martin gave one concession—"If a hospital is built in Duncan the lake situation can be reviewed at any time."

The minister said he is sympathetic towards Lake Cowichan residents, said the mayor, but he pointed out that to build an annex to King's Daughters' Hospital would cost too much at present.

New Phone Cable to Link Port Alberni, Tofino Airport

TOFINO—A new telephone cable, from Port Alberni to Tofino airport, will be installed soon.

The cable will reduce the number of Tofino subscribers on some party lines and will give an extra circuit between the airport and Ucluelet.

The B.C. Telephone Co. will also install additional lines locally, and rebuild some of the existing ones.

Marriage Counsellors Ready to Help Today

Formation of a special marriage counselling service "to fill a public need" was announced yesterday by the Family and Children's Service.

Starting today, social workers Gerard Lortie and Mrs.

Gwen Lundy will be available on a full-time basis at Spencer house to discuss problems with married couples in need of advice and help.

"We have had many inquiries about such a service,"

David Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service, said last night. "It's in response to these calls that the service is being put into operation."

"It will operate under a fee system, because we wish to make it as self-supporting as possible," he added. "But any couples who can't afford to pay can still receive the service."

The service will be restricted to counselling only.

Esquimalt Torpedoes Unanimity

Health Board Now Suggests Full Area Fluoridation Vote

Malahat Casualty 'Unchanged'

No change was reported yesterday in the condition of Barbara Joan Lawton, 19, of 1050 Southgate, critically injured early Sunday in a Malahat highway crash that killed two men and injured two other persons.

Miss Lawton underwent brain surgery in Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday. She also suffered extensive additional injuries.

The other injured, Jacqueline Mackey, also of 1050 Southgate, and Chris Morgan, 25, of 406 Quebec, are in "fairly good" and "good" condition.

Ballroom New Site For Ballots

City voters probably will continue to cast ballots at a single downtown voting centre in December civic elections.

Council will be asked to approve establishment of the voting centre in the Victoria ballroom, Cormorant and Government, only half a block away from the city's traditional polling place, the now-demolished public market building.

The building formerly was a roller rink. City clerk Frank Hunter said yesterday he will recommend the move following a survey of downtown locations. He said: "This one seems ideal for our purpose. It has a level floor. It's empty. There are two entrances and a single exit. And it is well-heated by a gas furnace."

McKinnon Fund Now $840

Many smaller donations, but all given in the same spirit as larger gifts yesterday afternoon brought the Archie McKinnon appreciation fund total close to the $840 mark.

The fund, begun last Friday, will finance a convalescent trip for the YMCA physical director, injured two weeks ago during a comedy act at the Crystal Garden, and his wife.

Fund headquarters at the Victoria "Y" was busy yesterday accepting contributions from many young members who know what Archie McKinnon has done for them and others.

Woman Crawls For Aid

Mrs. Bessie Brazil, 62, of 676 Battery, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in city police ambulance for treatment of a broken wrist, caused by a fall at the rear of her home.

After the fall, Mrs. Brazil crawled to the street in front of her house, where she called for help. A neighbor telephoned police.

Halloween 'Humor'

Firework Lit On Cat's Back

A small white cat, its leg hurt and its fur singed from firecracker burns, was an early victim of the warped humor of Halloween pranksters last night.

Someone caught the cat, taped a firecracker to its back, lit it and let the cat go. It was found, mewing pitifully and licking at the tape still on its back, by Norm Urquhart, 13, of 538 Alpha Street.

"I was on the way home when I heard it crying," Norm said last night. "It's leg was hurt."

The incident occurred shortly after SPCA officials, who took the cat for treatment, had issued a warning to keep all pets in the house on Halloween.

"Every year shocking things are done to dogs and cats with fireworks in the name of Halloween fun," an SPCA spokesman said.

... head of team

Wurtele to Run Again Because 'I Like Job'

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night he will definitely seek election in December to a fifth consecutive two-year term as reeve of Esquimalt.

Announcing his decision to run, the reeve said: "I like the job. Esquimalt has an excellent council and we work well as a team."

New Sidney Wharf To Be Tested Today

Trial run to the new ferry wharf at Sidney, cancelled earlier this week, now will be held at 1 p.m. Friday.

Among officials on hand to watch the first docking, by Washington State Ferries' Mr. Evergreen State, will be the ferry company's operations manager Capt. H. I. Anderson, Seattle, Thomas Blackwood, manager of Pacific Pledriving Ltd., general contractors, and public works department engineer Kenneth Harris, Vancouver.

Delays were blamed on the weather which prevented laying of asphalt on rain-dampened wooden decking.

New Look Reverses Decision

Victoria-Esquimalt health board yesterday reversed its previous stand and decided by unanimous vote to recommend that fluoridation plebiscites be held in all four Greater Victoria municipalities this December.

But last night Reeve A. C. Wurtele indicated Esquimalt will stand by its decision not to hold a fluoridation vote this December.

Trustee Richard Reeve, health board chairman, said he called the special board meeting to "have another look" at the previous recommendation to delay any fluoridation vote until results of a dental study now being conducted in Greater Victoria schools are known.

LITTLE CORRELATION
"On consideration," said Mr. Reeve, "I am satisfied there is little correlation between the school study and the issue now being considered."

The chairman said he had also taken into consideration the fact that this was a mayoralty year which would attract a large turnout of voters. He added that the Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to carry out a public education campaign between now and election time.

"Personally," said Ald. M. H. Mooney, "I think people know enough about fluoridation and they have made up their minds already."

BENEFIT OF ALL
"Sooner or later the people will have to admit that fluoridation is for the benefit of all—not just for the few," said Ald. D. J. Proudfoot. "We should (recommend) it now or not at all. We're always shelving things, putting them off. It's up to us to guide the people and advise the councils and we should be willing to stand up and be counted."

Trustee W. C. Thomson said he was willing to move for rescinding of his original resolution to delay the vote until sometime next year. He said at the time he proposed it "things were very quiet and the Chamber of Commerce seemed to have forgotten about fluoridation. The publicity which followed the board's action brought the issue to life again."

ABSENTEE VOTE
Two absent members of the health board indicated they favored the new stand. Ald. Lily Wilson gave a written proxy vote and Coun. G. K. Sammon was called by telephone.

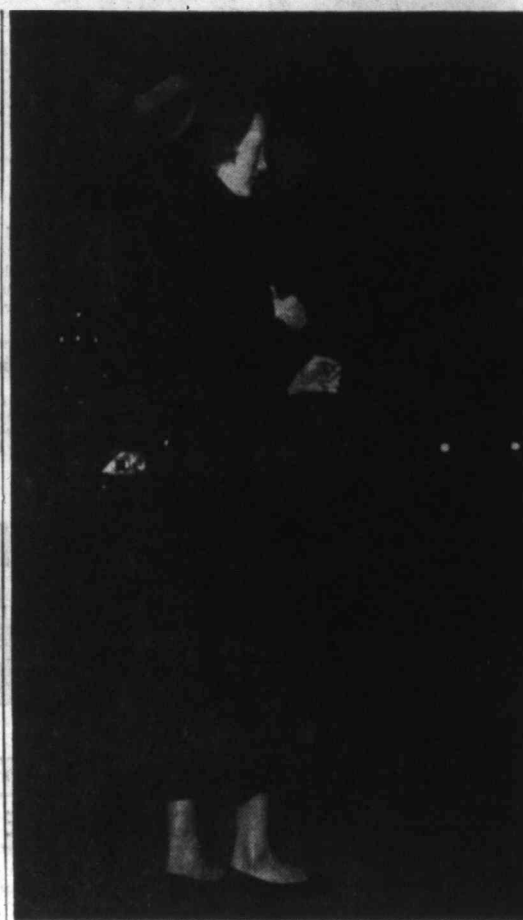

The board voted in favor of sending letters to the municipal councils recommending the December vote and drawing attention to information disclosed by medical and dental experts at a recent meeting sponsored by the health board.

"I don't think any of us are concerned that we may be criticized for changing our minds," said Mr. Reeve. "But I think we ought to include some facts which have been drawn to our attention."

LASTS THROUGH LIFE
Ald. Mooney said he was sorry that more municipal representatives did not attend the meeting.

"Fluoridating is not just for children up to the age of 12," he said. "People benefit from it all through life. And we were told by a city dentist that people who come to Victoria from areas where natural fluorides exist in the water soon suffer rapid deterioration of their teeth."

"Also, a doctor told us that fluoridation is not harmful to the body."

Clothes Sense Can Save Lives

With arrival of season of dark, often rainy evenings, Greater Victoria police renew constant plea for pedestrians to make themselves visible. It may not always be possible to dress like Mrs. Mae Myhre, right, in light clothing that is readily seen in car headlights. But solid dark costume like that of

Around the Island

'Bogus' Canvassers Fled

Additional Island News Appears on Page 16

NANAIMO—RCMP have been told that two "bogus" canvassers are calling for donations on behalf of the Fund for Crippled Children.

Harewood housewives have reported that two girls who called at their doors and were told to wait, while the women called their husbands, immediately left and did not return.

The Crippled Children's Fund is included in the current United Appeal.

Norm Schroeder, head of the appeal campaign, warned residents yesterday not to give donations to canvassers until they had identified themselves by producing official United Appeal receipts.

The fund has reached the halfway mark towards its target of $54,600.

PORT ALBERNI—City workmen have been told to tread lightly on private property.

Ald. Jack Perry, chairman of the works committee, reported after investigating a complaint of damage to a hedge and fence by the sidewalk crew. On his recommendation, workmen were instructed to avoid unnecessary damage to lawns, shrubs and other private property when working on city projects.

A representative of Wade, Stockhill and Armour, architects, will be asked to visit the site of the federal building where with members of the city council, Ald. Perry reported that a hazard exists where the east-west lane drops off for three or four feet at the loading platform.

The architects had requested the city to undertake work on the lanes, but Ald. Perry declared: "They have created the situation and should take the responsibility."

RCMP will be told about vandalism at the pumping station where, Ald. Perry reported, heavy wire screening over windows could only have been cut by strong, adult hands.

NANAIMO—Members of Nanaimo Kinsmen Club met boys of Brannan Lake Industrial school informally during a visit to the institution this week.

Kinsmen toured the premises, then took the juveniles on a basketball. The boys served refreshments in the school cafeteria after the match. The visit took the place of the club's regular meeting.

NANAIMO—The city fire department needs volunteer firemen.

The normal force of 20 volunteers who assist the 15 regular fulltime firemen has been depleted to 10.

This is mainly due to retirements of some of the older volunteers, said Fire Chief Colin McArthur.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Funeral services for a young logger, killed Saturday in a forest accident, will be held at 2 p.m., today, in St. Peter's Anglican Church.

Maxwell Godkin, 27, died almost instantly from injuries suffered when he was cutting a green tree. An old, dead tree was dislodged when the green tree fell, and hit Godkin on the temple.

An inquest Tuesday recorded a verdict of accidental death.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Forbes Godkin, and two sisters, Sharon, 15 years, and Mrs. Donald Redford, all of Bilis Landing.

Canon T. D. Proctor will officiate at the funeral services.

DUNCAN—Complaints of poor telephone service here will be checked promptly, B.C. Telephone Co. officials have told the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber had complained that at times members have been able to count as high as 100 after picking up a telephone receiver before they were asked for the number they are calling.

"This year they seem to be starting early."

DUNCAN—It's a little mystifying but there are suddenly "buffer" speed zones on each side of this city.

They are zones where 50-mph signs are erected between 60 and 30-mph zones on the "outskirts" of the city to give motorists a chance to slow their cars down.

Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce officials were supposed to take the idea up with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi late next month.

The 60-mph zone south of town ends at the Cowichan Golf Club. There is two-mile-long 50-mph zone to the city limits.

At the north end on the Trans-Canada Highway the 60-mph zone ends at Norcross Road, about a mile from the city limits. It, too, has a 50-mph buffer zone.

GANGES—Some $206 was collected on Salt Spring Island during the tag day in aid of the CNIB, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Canadian Legion, Branch 92. Members of local organizations assisted with the work.

Mrs. J. G. Jensen was in charge of the Vesuvius Bay area and Mrs. M. Gyves in charge of the south end of the island.

DUNCAN—Cowichan Valley electrical contractors are up in arms over what they call "unauthorized" persons obtaining permits to carry out electrical work.

Members of the Cowichan Electrical Contractors' Association feel the situation is detrimental to the public interest and to licensed contractors who must pass examinations to gain certificates of competency.

The Duncan electrical inspector for the provincial government has been invited to attend a meeting of the association in Duncan, Nov. 18, to discuss inspection procedures.

Delegates appointed to attend a meeting of the Electrical Contractors' Association of British Columbia, to be held in Vancouver, were Cliff Bain and Jack Van den Berg, a new member.

DUNCAN—After a 14-year-old Indian was placed on six-months' probation in juvenile court, Police warned his father: "We're not going to chase you around the country" to collect $3.50 for court costs.

A police official issued the warning after Juvenile Judge A. C. Sutton gave the father until Saturday to pay the costs.

PORT ALBERNI—Mrs. C. R. Sexton and Mrs. D. Russell will attend the provincial Social Credit women's auxiliary convention in Vancouver, starting today.

They will remain for the league convention, to be held Friday and Saturday.

LADYSMITH—Carl Walker, was re-elected president of Ladysmith Little Theatre group at the annual meeting held Monday. Others elected: Mrs. William Westwood, vice-president; Mrs. John Hulme Jr., secretary-treasurer. The executive includes stage manager John Tooker, and directors Marjorie Walker and Kenneth Weeks.

Plans were finalized for presentation of the three-act farce "See How They Run" by Philip King, directed by Kenneth Weeks for two-day run, Nov. 6 and 7 in Market Square Community Hall.

The cast includes Norma Fraser, Evelyn Smith, Marguerite Feltrin, John Tooker, Ian Mitchell, Carl Walker, Jack Atkinson, Sr., James McKinley, and Adam Sugden.

Appointments for the forthcoming play include Mrs. Leslie Punnett, costume mistress; Mrs. Tom Robertson, Jr., posters; Mrs. W. Westwood, properties; Mrs. C. Walker, make-up and refreshments; Fat Murray, tickets; Mrs. John Atkinson, Sr., sound effects; Mr. Tooker and Mrs. Walker, seating.

Giant Balloon Lofted

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—Space scientists here shot a 100-foot balloon to an altitude of 240 miles over the Atlantic Ocean about dusk yesterday, touching off "flying saucer" reports all along the Atlantic seaboard.

The rocket launcher, its vapor trail or the 10-storey high aluminum-coated balloon, which weighed only 130 pounds, were seen as far north as Boston and Ottawa and as far south as Florida.

People who saw the balloon described it variously as a "blimp with lights," a flame-spouting jet-assisted helicopter and two planes with lights flying extremely close together.

The balloon was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in one of a series of experiments the government hopes will lead to placing one of the balloons in orbit around the earth.

Viewers in the New York City area began reporting the flashing object about 20 minutes after it was launched along the Virginia coast.

The huge balloon was made of plastic with an aluminum coat only one-half of one-thousandth of an inch thick. In the forthcoming experiments in space communications, the balloon will be used as a reflector. By bouncing signals off the balloon it should be possible to transmit signals thousands of miles.

At present, high frequency radio and TV signals cannot be received readily by stations more than 50 to 100 miles distant because they are blocked out by elevations and other physical obstacles such as tall buildings.

Accident Victims Make Progress

Making rapid strides to recovery after separate accidents are these young patients, with St. Joseph's Hospital student nurse Helen English. In foreground is Carale Cookson, 14, of 2901 Colquitz, who suffered head injuries when thrown from horse on Wilkinson Road near West Saanich

Road, Oct. 17. Behind is Dagmar Krakau, 10, of Courtenay, who suffered head injuries in a two-car crash near Courtenay last Thursday. Her father, mother and sister were also injured when their car was in collision with an RCMP patrol car. —(Colonist photo.)

Atomic Attack on Japan 'Disaster,' Says de Gaulle

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle, in a volume of memoirs published Wednesday, described America's use of the atomic bomb against Japan as a "disaster" which came despite the fact the Japanese had shown themselves ready to negotiate peace.

Four Hundred Cut Off By Landslide of Mud

Winners Got Help On Quiz

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charles Van Doren had both questions and answers before appearances on the television quiz show, "Twenty-One," an authoritative source said Wednesday. The source of this charge told Fred Danzig of United Press International, that to his knowledge big prize winners—with few exceptions—received pre-broadcast aid.

The source said that Van Doren received help over the rough spots.

I'll Buy Groceries'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—"What are you going to do with all that money?" neighbors asked 77-year-old pensioner George Brown.

"Buy groceries," replied George. (See also story Page 7.)

Then the little bachelor hustled from his $12-a-month room here to the telegraph office and tried to cash the telegram which told him he had won $140,000 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes based on Wednesday's Cambridgehire handicap.

When they told him he couldn't cash a telegram, George toddled off to his old home in nearby Vancouver to pick up his pension cheque. His pension is worth $35 a month. He gets another $20 in social assistance.

When reporters tried to question him, George said: "Go to hell. I don't want to be bothered by anybody."

George, who is almost totally deaf, didn't hear the radio broadcast of the race. He was one of three British Columbia pensioners who won one of the top three prizes.

Two Vancouver pensioners, retired building contractor George Scoble, and part-time tailor William Cliff, won second prizes of $54,000.

Charles Blackley of Lillooet, 54-year-old plumber and heating contractor who draws a pension for service in the Second World War, won $28,000.

The only non-pensioner in B.C. to get a top prize was David De Camillis, 45, of West Vancouver, who also won $28,000.

Jorgen Barstad, a 29-year-old Alberta bachelor farmer with a longing for "small piece of land" of his own now can afford to buy it. He won $140,000 Wednesday in the sweep.

Reds Sure Life Exists On Mars

PARIS (UPI)—Prof. K. Omorodnikov, Soviet astronomer was quoted Wednesday as saying that life "unquestionably" exists on Mars and Russia intends to send up a "Marsnik" to get pictorial evidence of it.

Oil Sands A-Blast Not 'Dead'

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada may still get the opportunity to explode an atomic bomb to free oil from Alberta's Athabasca oil sands.

U.S. authorities said Wednesday Russia has agreed to drop its objections to the peaceful use of nuclear explosives in any new agreement to extend the current nuclear test ban.

Mexico Hurricane Kills at Least 80

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Eighty persons are known dead and 100 missing in the hurricane-hit Pacific port of Manzanillo, reports from the area said Wednesday night. Estimates put the number of injured at 500.

It was feared many of those listed as missing would be found buried in the wreckage of houses and other buildings.

The hurricane raked the port Tuesday. Rivers fed by torrential two-day rains flooded large areas of the states of Colima and Jalisco.

The office of Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos said the civil hospital at Manzanillo reported 74 bodies had been recovered.

Cuba Arrests 400 'Plotters'

HAVANA (Reuters)—Four hundred persons Wednesday were reported to have been arrested in Camaguey City, eastern Cuba.

They are accused of taking part in a conspiracy allegedly led by Maj. Hubert Matos, former military chief of Camaguey province.

Pioneer Plan For Province

British Columbia teachers are considering a revolutionary proposal which would sound the death knell on seniority as a major ingredient to advancement within their profession.

The precedent-shattering proposal has gone out to teachers from a special committee of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation chaired by Bernard C. Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

THREE TYPES

If adopted by federation members the membership committee's plan would:

1. Create three teaching classifications: instructor, teacher, professional teacher (with different salary scales for different school districts).
2. Place classification of all teachers in the hands of a BCTF board of review.
3. Classify members on the basis of competence, experience and educational accomplishment.
4. Limit salary levels available to the classifications of instructor and teacher.

PRECEDENT SET

Mr. Gillie said yesterday he believed it was the first time such a plan had been created within a teachers' organization "anywhere in the world, and I've gone into this kind of thing pretty thoroughly."

One of the objects of the plan, he said, is to end "public thinking that anybody who stands up before a blackboard and waves a piece of chalk is a teacher, regardless of whether he has been teaching six months or six years."

VOTE NEEDED

He said implementation of the plan will require changes in the constitution of the teachers' federation and is likely to come before 1961. It will take a two-thirds vote of teachers to amend the constitution.

He said that if the plan is adopted it should end the complaint of B.C. school trustees that they cannot be qualified judges of teachers' competence.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

Under the terms of the proposal all persons entering the teaching profession will automatically become instructors and as such shall be limited to the first two steps on any school district's scale of annual salary increments.

After two years they may apply to the board of review for re-classification as teachers, and if they have not applied at the end of five years their classification will come up for automatic review by the board.

Teacher applicants will have to show that they have served two years as instructors and present evidence of competence based on reports of district superintendents of schools, directors of instruction and principals, plus any other information the board may require.

FIVE-YEAR WAIT

Teachers will be limited to the first seven steps on the salary scale and may not apply for reclassification as professional teachers until they have served five years as teachers.

Professional teachers would have to have a degree or its equivalent, present evidence of "continued competence" based upon the same sources as for the classification of teacher, present "evidence of professional growth acceptable to the board of review," plus any other information requested.

NO SALARY CUT

Upon implementation of the plan no present teachers would suffer a salary cut, and teachers who entered the profession prior to Sept. 1, 1956, could apply for professional teacher classification on the strength of "extensive experience as a successful teacher" in lieu of a degree.

'Policing' Answer To Public

A B.C. Teachers' Federation proposal that it police competence within its own ranks has been described by the committee which drafted it as "an answer to all those who decry automatic advancement."

The committee, chaired by Victoria's Bernard C. Gillie, said the plan "is our attempt to guarantee the competence of teachers, or at least to make it clear that we are not willing to have all classroom teachers lumped together, be they the qualified or the unqualified, the satisfactory or the very unsatisfactory."

"Many believe that we do a great disservice to the public, to education, and to ourselves by covering up."

City Hotel To Cost $1,000,000

Plans for construction of a 48-unit motel and a 100-unit, drive-in hotel in Victoria at a total cost of $1,000,000 have been announced by an American hotel chain.

City contractor Derryck Jackson of Cobble Hill, representing Doric Hotels, announced the plans yesterday. The Doric chain takes in 35 hotels with a total of 4,000 rooms, and includes the Saxony Hotel in Miami and the Ocotillo Lodge in Palm Springs.

The 48-unit motel is already under construction at 3025 Douglas Street, next to a restaurant being built by Paul Arsenault of Victoria.

Work on the hotel, which will be a five-storey building, begins in December at an undisclosed downtown location, and should be completed in May, 1960. The hotel will include a 100-seat restaurant and a Hawaiian lounge overlooking a heated swimming pool.
